DARK LANTERNS AND FANS.

Hist, hist, hark!
Be quiet as can be!
We're detectives in the dark,
And we revel in mysterie!
—Chorus from "Dark Lantern Dick."

That's about the size of the average detective, a lady from California says. Give a detective a mystery and he is happy. What if he can't solve it? Sometimes, to solve it is to give it up—which is not so paradoxical as it sounds.

There is a California girl who caught a murderer—and he was one the detectives couldn't catch. She thinks detectives are fakes. Well, detectives have given up lots of St. Louis mysteries that are as fascinating as a French novel. The Sunday Post-Dispatch will tell them all. It will give you an entirely new idea of mysteries. Maybe you can work some of them out.

The grave of a nobleman who had much to do with the early days of St. Louis (this town had pretty illustrious ancestors) is in one of the most peculiar religious houses in America. Yet he never took the vows of the order. His name is perpetuated in St. Louis in several ways, and I know you know you want to know about him. Well, you know, you know where to do so.

Don't talk to me of running brook,
Nor pretty, placid pool;
While in the city I must stay,
I really think I'd be quite gay
If I could but keep cool!
—Smother Goose Melodies.

"Is it hot enough for you?" asks the Innocuous Idiot. And then you slug him.

I don't blame you. But why don't you cool off? You don't need to get warm about it; there's a way out. Keep cool, especially in cool weather. But really, all joking aside, you read the Sunday Post-Dispatch and you'll learn a few things in the way of timely topics for torrid times.

And, too, you may learn how to keep well. These warm days are trying on the health. There are few who do not suffer from the sun or the humidity or something of the sort. Health hints Sunday will help you.

The three oldest Masons in St. Louis—do you know them? The figure 3 figures singularly in their story—in several ways. There are 3 of them; they have taken the third degree; their lodge number is 3—and so on. I'll tell you more about them Sunday. Their life stories are peculiarly romantic and you'll be interested in knowing them.

There is an old-time story that when Osiris sang to Isis and she replied, and their words mingled, they—the words—were so sweet and beautiful that they turned into kisses, and thus the lover's token was born. Now that may not be just right, but if it isn't it ought to be. But that wasn't what I started out to record.

Kisses, some folks say, are cheap now. Well, a Frenchman paid $100 for one—and he thought he got his money's worth, too. See her picture in Sunday's Post-Dispatch and judge for yourself. And see what else you can see, too.

MEANEST MAN IN ALABAMA.

At Last He Is in Jail for His Petty Persecutions of a Woman Once His Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 14.—J. A. Edwards of Bessemer, Ala., was yesterday held for the grand jury on a charge of larceny, under peculiar circumstances. Edwards, it appears, married in Anniston, Ala., some time ago, but his wife subsequently was divorced from him and married Mr. Challan.

From a desire for vengeance he has several times sworn out warrants for fictitious crimes on her part and then fled from the jurisdiction of the court before he could be called upon to substantiate his complaints.

His latest achievement was to secure a requisition upon a warrant from the Governor of Alabama on the Governor of Georgia for his former wife for alleged larceny at Bessemer and she was brought to Atlanta under arrest.

Judge Orr, in binding Edwards over, stated that the system of persecution which [illegible] was carrying on against the woman was fiendish in its character. Edwards cursed and raved when he found that the woman was free while he himself had to answer to a criminal charge.

"Am I to be held while that woman is allowed to go free? She ought to be sent to jail, too," shrieked the prisoner.

"Remove him from the court, Mr. Bailiff," said the judge. "His very presence pollutes the court. The manner in which he obtained this warrant is a travesty on justice. He imposed on me, on the solicitor, on Gov. Candler and on the Governor of Alabama in order to gratify a fiendish spirit of revenge on this little woman."

The warrant against Mrs. Challan was dismissed in quick order. Her statement, a letter from the sheriff of Jefferson County, Ala., which stated that the same persecution had been going in that State, and newspaper clippings, showing the same facts, was all the evidence submitted.

THREE CENT FARES FOR A TIME

Gov. Pingree Induces Detroit Street Railways to Give the People an Object Lesson.

DETROIT, Mich., July 14.—It is reported that Gov. Pingree, as soon as the Council finally adopts the municipal railway ordinance, will bend his energies to securing a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment to the people, permitting the city of Detroit to go into the municipal ownership of streetrailways. The Governor hopes to get the special session in operation some time before the November elections, and announcement of the plan will be formally made within a few days. The information comes from a close counselor of Mr. Pingree.

The Governor has issued a proclamation to the people calling attention to the efforts of the "enemies of the people" to defeat the 3-cent fares for which he has been struggling for 10 years, and appealing to them to stand by him in the great contest.

The Municipal Street Railway Co., headed by Gov. Pingree, has made a deal with the owners of the lines to inaugurate 3-cent fares, commencing this morning at 6 o'clock, and notifies the public that the "great blessing will be permanent, unless defeated by the enemies of the people." It is the last play in the great fight to secure the passage of the franchise ordinance by the Common Council. Three-cent tickets will be sold on all lines, with general transfers.

REWARD FOR A HEROIC ACT.

Robert M. E. Cooper of St. Louis Inherits a Fortune.

WILLED AN ESTATE OF $500,000

HE AT ONE TIME FIGURED IN STATE POLITICS.

His Family Live in Springfield and Are in Destitute Circumstances—Happy Reunion Expected.

From poverty to the possession of a $500,000 estate is the sudden transition that awaits Robert M. E. Cooper.

The news has come to Missouri in a properly attested letter to the Chief of Police of Springfield from Justice H. J. Martin of Cripple Creek, Colo. Justice Martin is trying to locate Cooper to put him in possession of his wealth.

Cooper was born and reared in Springfield and was for many years promient as a newspaper editor and State politician. Drink dragged him down and he drifted to St. Louis.

The estate was left to Cooper by John C. Crego, a miser hermit, who recently died at Cripple Creek. Many years ago Crego lived in the Panhandle country of Texas. Cooper made a tour of that region and stopped for a short while near where Crego lived. Crego was not inclined to make acquaintances, but Cooper found him about to drown in a river and risked his own life to save the miser. That resulted in a friendship. Cooper returned to Springfield and became prominent. He kept up correspondence with Crego for some years, but they finally lost track of each other. Crego left Texas and was a pioneer prospector at Cripple Creek. He cleaned up half a million and quit. Thereafter he lived in absolute seclusion.

So far as he knew Cooper was still in Springfield, and a few days before he died he sent for Justice Martin and a will was drawn up, leaving everything to Cooper. To Justice Martin Crego told the story of how Cooper had saved his life.

The estate consists principally of gold coin and Texas land. A letter has been sent from Springfield to Justice Martin, informing him that Cooper may be found in St. Louis. Although Cooper is estranged from his family there has never been a divorce. His wife, a cultured woman, lives in Springfield. Through all these years of wretchedness she has remained faithful to her erratic husband, and it is now believed there will be a happy reunion.

Cooper has been a peripatetic newspaper man. In 1882 he published a weekly at Springfield. After repeated failures he came to St. Louis, where for some years he experienced the direst poverty. He is about 40 years old, tall and thin; he has brilliant black eyes and black hair; walks rapidly, as though on urgent business and talks well. He has had some education, and in his early days was a decidedly handsome young man.

ECHO OF SLAVERY DAYS.

Two Brothers, Who Were Bondsmen, to Be Reunited After a Separation of Sixty-Six Years.

CHICAGO, July 14.—After a separation of 66 years Nathan Branch, the oldest colored man in Evanston, will meet his brother Lee of Macon, Ga. The last sight they had of each other was in an auctioneer's room on a plantation in Chesterfield County, Virginia, when they were offered for sale. It is by the merest chance that they will meet again. C. H. Callum, a real estate man at Evanston, spent last winter in the South, and at Macon saw a man whom he supposed was Nathan Branch. The man was bent with age. Callum was surprised to find that he was a brother of Nathan.

The Evanston man told Lee Branch of Nathan, of another brother, Jordan, and what he knew of the family history.

Lee ercognized many of the facts as tallying with dim memories of his boyhood days. When Callum arrived in Evanston a few days ago he told Nathan of the incident, and letters were immediately sent to Macon, and replies are expected next week.

TRIED TO KILL HIS SWEETHEART.

Ernest Jenks Was Crazed With Jealousy.

MADE AN EFFORT TO SHOOT.

MISS LAURA BROWNING HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Jenks, With Revolver in One Hand and Holding the Girl's Arm, Ran Against a Clothes Prop and Was Knocked Down.

A clothes-prop averted what promised to be another woman-murder in St. Louis Thursday night. Ernest Jenks, crazed with jealousy, was dragging Miss Laura Browning through the yard of her home toward the coal shed. He held a cocked revolver in his right hand. He was threatening to kill her. He ran against a clothes-prop. He thought somebody had struck him, so he released the girl and ran away.

The dramatic occurrence, it is alleged, was the climax of a year's annoyances. A year ago Miss Laura Browning, the pretty 19-year-old daughter of Mrs. Libbie Browning of 3150½ Clifton place, received the attentions of Ernest Jenks of 4435A Easton avenue for a few months. These attentions were ardent, but Miss Browning did not entirely lose her heart. Her mother did not like the young man, and after a time Miss Browning told him she did not want to go with him any more.

That only made young Jenks the more determined to win her. The girl says he waited for her and accosted her on the street, pleading his suit, and that he wrote affectionate letters to her almost daily.

When she was unmoved by these methods, he became more demonstrative. Instead of pleading with her when he met her on the street, she says he threatened to kill her if she did not become his wife. His letters continued to be sentimental, but, according to Miss Browning, every one contained a threat to kill himself if she did not marry him.

Thursday evening at 8:30 Mrs. Browning went riding with Mrs. McCarthy of 2528 North Grand avenue, and her son, Joseph McCarthy.

Miss Laura stayed at home with her grandmother, Mrs. Griffith. Mindful of Jenks' threats, she kept the doors locked until her uncle, Jule Reyburn, came in.

Mrs. Browning returned from the drive at about 10:30. Miss Laura went out to the front gate.

Mrs. Browning was standing on the block at the curb talking to Mrs. McCarthy, when they heard Laura's name called from the direction of a lattice fence at the side of the house, which separates the front from the back yard.

"Somebody is calling you, Laura," said Mrs. Browning. "I guess it is Mr. Gregg. You had better go and see what he wants."

She referred to K. J. Gregg, a friend of the family, who is stopping at the house.

The girl said, "all right," but did not go immediately.

A moment later she and her mother said good-night to the McCarthys and started to enter the house.

Just as they reached the steps the door in the lattice fence opened and Ernest Jenks stepped through. He had a large revolver in his right hand.

"Laura, come here to me," he said, partially raising the weapon and handling it menacingly.

The girl shrank back and her mother tried to push her away from Jenks toward the door.

Jenks raised the revolver, it is said, and pointed it at Laura's face.

"If you don't come with me," he cried, "I will shoot you."

Mrs. Browning held her hat in her hand. She instinctively thrust it between her daughter's face and the muzzle of the revolver.

"Don't shoot, Ernest," she cried. "For God's sake, don't shoot."

Jenks turned on her, cocked the revolver and thrust it within an inch of her face.

"I came here to kill her," he said, "and if you interfere with me I will kill you first."

He stepped back and leveled the weapon deliberately at the head of Miss Browning. Her mother expected to see the flash leap from the muzzle of the revolver, which would carry death to the girl.

Mrs Browning turned and ran into the house, calling loudly for her brother, Mr. Reyburn, who had gone to sleep in his room.

"Now you come with me, Miss Browning," Jenks said. "I am going to kill you."

He seized her right wrist in his left hand and dragged her down from the steps and through the lattice gate. She screamed for help and tried to get free.

Without a word he dragged her as fast as he could toward the coal shed at the back of the lot, 50 feet away.

He could hear Mrs. Browning calling her brother through the house and knew he must hurry if he would carry out his threat.

Miss Browning, in her struggles, got in his way. He trampled upon her feet and continued to drag her.

Half-way through the yard a heavy clothes prop had been left standing against the clothes line.

In his mad haste Jenks did not see it. He rushed against it. The force of the contact of his head with it was so great that he staggered and almost fell. His hold on Miss Browning's wrist relaxed. Miss Browning wrenched loose and started to run back toward the house.

Jenks evidently thought somebody had struck him. As soon as he could recover his balance he ran out through the alley gate as fast as he could and disappeared through the alley.

Policeman Sullivan was called in and told about it. Up to 1 o'clock Friday Jenks had not been arrested.

Saturday morning Mrs. Browning and her daughter will apply for a warrant against Jenks.

STRUCK BY A SWING-BOARD.

Pansy Charlton, Aged 12 Years, Seriously Hurt as the Result of an Unusual Accident.

Pansy Charlton, aged 12 years, was swinging in the rear of her home, 723 North Fourteenth street, Friday morning. The swing-board was upstairs and the child called to one of the women to throw it down to her.

The board was tossed out, but a passing breeze caught it and caused it to fall upon Pansy's head.

In a few moments it was discovered the little girl had been seriously injured, and an ambulance conveyed her to the City Hospital.

SMOKING HIM OUT!

COMPANIES MAY RE-ENTER STATE.

But Must First Pay a Fine of $1000 Each.

THE JUDGMENT IS MODIFIED.

RESULT OF ATTORNEY CAMPBELL'S PLEADING.

Supreme Court Extends Clemency to the Seventy-Three Insurance Companies That Were in a Trust.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 14.—The Supreme Court, after the consultation of the judges, modified the judgment in the case of the 73 fire insurance companies under the order of ouster, and allowed the companies to continue to do business in the State on payment of a fine of $1000. This brings $73,000 in the State Treasury from this fine.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 14.—The Supreme Court in banc this morning overruled the motion for rehearing in the case of 73 insurance companies recently ousted from doing business in Missouri by this court for violation of the anti-trust law.

Attorney Given Campbell for these insurance companies then filed a motion to modify the judgment.

The motion, after pleading the innocence of these companies as to the existence of the Underwriters' Social Club in St. Joseph, asked the court to set aside the order of ouster and grant authority to these companies to continue business in Missouri upon such terms as the court may deem just and proper in the premises.

Mr. Campbell made a statement to the court in support of the motion and in the interest of the companies, pleading that the companies did not know of the existence of the Social Club in St. Joseph; that these companies transact three-fourths and probably five-sixths of the insurance business in Missouri; that their agents numbering 20,000 would suffer greatly; that the great commercial interests of St. Louis and Kansas City would suffer; that if this court did not modify the judgment and let these companies remain in Missouri competition would be completely destroyed, but if the companies were allowed to remain in the State, competition would be thrown wide open and insurance rates would be cheaper in Missouri than ever before; and that if these companies were driven out of Missouri, the State would lose 75 per cent of the revenue from insurance companies or $75,000 per year. He pleaded with the court to consider his motion in the interests of humanity.

Attorney General Crow stated that he would leave it entirely with the court to decide this motion; that he had done his duty as he saw it, but that he did not accede to all of Mr. Campbell's statement as to the effect on the interests of the State by ousting these companies. He said that there were 72 fire insurance companies left yet to do business in Missouri and that they could do the business without any detriment to the interests of the State. The court took a recess to consider the motion.

MORGAN, VEST, AND CARUTH.

PAIN WAS TOO MUCH FOR HIM.

August Piccoli Ends His Suffering With a Bullet.

OFTEN THREATENED TO DO IT.

KILLED HIMSELF AS THE BELL RANG FOR BREAKFAST.

His Leg Was Injured by a Fall and Never Healed and His Ailments Made Him Anxious to Die.

While seated before a mirror in the dining room of his home, 509 Rutger street, August Piccoli, aged 50 years, fired a bullet into his brain at 7:30 o'clock Friday morning.

Alarmed by the shot, Mrs. Piccoli ran into the room, and caught her husband as he was falling from the chair.

"I've done it, Sophia," he said. "Forgive me."

A few minutes later he was dead.

Piccoli was a painter, but owing to ill health had not worked for some time.

On the bureau in his apartment was found a note reading as follows:

> To My Loving Wife—I don't want to bear the pains no longer. The older I get the worse I feel. All my friends pray for me to God.

Piccoli was the father of a large family. His wife said he had threatened to kill himself, but she paid little attention to his remarks.

About five years ago Piccoli fell from a high scaffold and sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. The injury never heled completely and it caused him considerable annoyance. Ultimately his health failed, and he declared to friends that death would afford the only relief for his suffering.

Thursday night he was in a gloomy mood. "Sophia," he said to his wife, "what is the use of my living when I can't get well."

Mrs. Piccoli spoke to her husband consolingly, but he refused to be comforted. During the night he got up several times, but his wife induced him to return to bed.

Friday morning he was morose and sullen.

The pistol shot sounded as the breakfast bell rang.

A PECULIAR DAMAGE CLAIM

Mrs. Allen Dennis Wants 53000 From William Baker Because of Representations as to a House Rented.

Mrs. Ellen Dennis wants $3000 damages from William Baker on peculiar allegations.

She says she rented the house at 709 North Eighteenth street from him May 15, on his representations that the neighborhood was good and that the houses in the block were occupied by reputable people. She declares, however, that she had not been there very long before she witnessed conduct by several of her neighbors that caused her to blush with shame. She says she learned on inquiry that houses were used for improper purposes and that Baker knew it when he rented one to her.

She says she was daily insulted by her neighbors and was compelled to leave the locality. She estimates that she is actually damaged $1000 by her experience and asks the court for $2000 additional as punitive damages.

NEARLY 2000 TOBACCO WORKERS ARE IDLE.

Many Persons Are at Present Walking the Streets and Secretary Sweeney Says Wages Are Being Reduced.

PLANTS OF BROWN BROS. AND BUTLER HAVE BEEN SHUT DOWN.

Trust Representative Explains the Situation by Saying That More Men Are to be Placed in the Two Buildings

The tobacco workers of St. Louis are fearful that what was a menace when the tobacco trust entered the local field has come to be an actuality. They believe that between 1000 and 2000 of their craft who have been thrown out of work are to be permanently kept out of employment in the tobacco factories of St. Louis.

This fear, which is voiced by Charles W. Sweeney, local financial secretary-treasurer of the National Tobacco Workers' Union of America, is based on the fact that all of the tobacco manufacturing plants in the trust shut down July 1 and two of them, the Brown and Butler factories, are to remain closed.

The plants in the trust, which is known by the title, Continental Tobacco Co., are the Liggett & Meyers branch, Drummond branch, Brown branch and Butler branch. The Liggett & Meyers branch employs about 2500 persons; Drummond about 1500 and Brown and Butler combined about 1500.

When the shutdown occurred the Drummond employes were notified to report at factory No. 1 of the Liggett & Meyers branch, July 11. The Liggett & Meyers employes were told to report at their factory, No. 2, July 15. Some of the Brown and Butler employes were given tickets entitling them to admission to the old Drummond plant to apply for work. Others were not given these tickets and these, according to Mr. Sweeney, are not permitted to enter the building and have no opportunity to ask for work. One could no more enter a tobacco trust factory without a pass than he could go at will into a bank's treasure vault.

Mr. Sweeney said to the Post-Dispatch to-day: "It is apparently the intention of the trust to decrease the number of workers in their employ by the number that were formerly engaged in the Brown and Butler plants. In doing this the trust is not going to correspondingly reduce its output. But it is going to cut wages. In fact, that is being done now. Men working on fixed salaries are required to perform a great deal more work than formerly. Foremen of floors and departments, whose work cannot be gauged by quantity, are being made to suffer a reduction in salary. Men who received $25 per week are getting only $18, and others, who received lower salaries, are being reduced in the same ratio.

"We suppose that the trust has some apparently plausible explanation for the shutdown and for not taking the men back to work whom they let out to make room for the Drummond people, but the fact remains that these people are out of a job, as are the Brown & Butler people, who were not given passes to the old Drummond plant, and there is nothing for them to do here but to walk the streets or compete with other trades."

A representative of the trust located at the Liggett & Meyers branch, speaking for the trust, said to the Post-Dispatch:

"The tobacco workers are apprehensive without cause. The Continental plants were shut down July 1 for repairs and improvements, to increase the capacity and to take an inventory for the annual report to the Federal Government. The situation in a nutshell is this: The intention is to carry on the company's manufacturing at St. Louis in two plants, the Liggett & Meyers and Drummond branches. In these two plants we will manufacture as much tobacco and employ as many people, if not more, as under the old system when the Brown and Butler branches were in operation.

"During the month of June the Liggett & Meyers branch was worked overtime to produce enough stocks to last us through the period of necessary idleness. On July 1 we had on hand one million and a quarter pounds of finished product, enough to last us half a month under ordinary business conditions.

"Shortly after the shutdown the Drummond force was moved out to our factory No. 1 and as soon thereafter as possible work was begun. Our factory No. 2 has a capacity equal to our former total output. This factory will be used by the Liggett & Meyers branch and all of the old employes reinstated there. In all probability there will be more people employed in the two big plants than there ever was in all of the plants under the old system."

AN AWKWARD MISTAKE

SUBURBAN GARDEN WAITER MADE A BLUNDER.

WHITE LADIES ORDERED OUT.

He Thought They Were Colored, and Now the Management May Have a Damage Suit on Its Hands.

Joseph Cappells, a merchant tailor, who lives at 3944 Page avenue, claims that his wife and her sister, Miss Florence Spellman, were subjected to great humiliation and annoyance at the Suburban Garden Thursday night without cause. He says he will sue for damages and has consulted Sale & Sale with that purpose in view.

Mr. Jannopoulo, proprietor of the Suburban, says that his head waiter made a regrettable error for which profuse apologies were made, and there was no intention to humiliate or annoy Mrs. Cappells and Miss Spellman.

It is an inexorable rule at the Suburban not to accept the patronage of colored people. Occasionally one straggles into the garden, and as soon as he or she is seen by one of the attaches of the place he or she is requested to depart. Such an order has never been disobeyed, except in one instance, and then the supposed negro was a white man, a countryman and personal friend of Mr. Jannopoulo. This man was very indignant until Jannopoulo explained the matter to him; then he thought it something of a joke on himself.

The same mistake was made in regard to Mrs. Cappells and Miss Spellman. They are brunettes, and the waiter claims he thought they belonged to the proscribed race. He told them so and they were deeply offended. They knew Musical Director Maurice Spier, and seeing him told him what had happened. He at once hunted up Mr. Jannopoulo and told him a mistake had been made. Jannopoulo went to the ladies and told them he was sorry for the error. They were too much excited to accept an explanation and went home almost in tears.

Mr. Cappells said Friday: "Neither my wife nor my sister-in-law looks like a colored woman. My wife is no darker than I am, and you can see that I am about as light as the average Caucasian. My sister-in-law is fairer than my wife.

"They went to the Suburban last night without an escort. After the performance they seated themselves at a table and ordered ice cream. A waiter served it and they paid him. Just then a man who said he was the head waiter, came to them and said they would have to move on; that Mr. Jannopoulo would not suffer colored people to be served in the garden.

"My wife and sister-in-law protested and the head waiter wet away and got a man dressed as a policeman, who told them they must get out; that colored people could not remain in the garden. The waiter threw the money they had paid him on the table. A crowd had gathered by this time and the ladies were deeply humiliated. They could do nothing but submit, however, and they left the garden.

"My wife is almost prostrated to-day as a result of her experience. The matter is in the hands of my lawyers."

Mr. Jannopoulo said: "It was a mistake and I am sorry it happened. I apologized as soon as I heard of the error and tried to convince the ladies that no slight was intended. They were not addressed roughly. As soon as they told the watchman that they were white people he came to me and reported and I told him not to order them out. By that time they had found Mr. Spier and he told me they were white; then I hunted them up and tried to explain to them. It was an awkward mistake, but I have done everything possible to rectify it."

GLUE COMBINE COMPLETED.

The United American Company Organized at New York, Capital $35,000,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The organization of the United American Glue Co., with a capital of $35,000,000, was practically completed at a meeting held yesterday at the office of the company, No. 66 Broadway.

The announcement was made that the new concern has invaded Canada and acquired a monopoly of the glue business of British North America.

Louis Steinfeld, the active promoter of the big combination, and his associates have contracts for the entire raw by-product of all the Canadian tanneries for the next ten years. They also acquired the glue works of F. C. Marquis at Quebec. As the tariff on the glue manufactures between this country and Canada is 25 per cent, the new glue combine has secured a big trade advantage.

BACK FROM KLONDIKE.

Miners Arrive at Port Townsend With Bags of Dust.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., July 14.—The Orizoba arrived from the north this morning, bringing 50 returning Klondikers, most of whom have gold dust ranging from $1500 up to several thousand. The ship's strong box contains 100 pounds of the yellow metal from the Klondike. This party arrived up river from Dawson on the steamer Terrel.

Some passengers direct from Atlin report that claims in that district are being worked. They say that Judge Irving, who was sent to Atlin to straighten out mining properties is giving great satisfaction, and in awarding all claims to original locaters they are permitted to commence work. He makes no distinction between Americans and Canadians and holds that Americans who have taken out miners' license in accordance with the laws of British Columbia and prior to the passage of the alien exclusion law, located claims, are entitled to the same privileges as Canadians.

DEFIED THE UNITED STATES.

Barbarous Execution of a Choctaw Indian.

THE COURT'S WRIT IGNORED.

SHERIFF REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE JUDGE THOMAS' AUTHORITY.

William Goings, a Territory Desperado, Led From Jail and in the Presence of the Tribe Shot to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, I. T., July 14.—Judge Thomas and the Federal Court officials here do not credit the statement that the Choctaw Sheriff of Wolf County executed William Going in defiance of the Federal Court's order to stay the execution. If the shooting did take place the Federal authorities will place the Choctaw officers under arrest, if troops are required to enforce the court's edict.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ANTLERS, I. T., July 14.—In spite of the writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Thomas of the United States Court, demanding a stay of execution, William Goings, the Choctaw murderer, was executed by shooting at 2:23 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After a hurried ride of forty miles, Deputy Marshal G.W. Clay reached Alikchi, where Goings was confined in jail, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and in company with Deputy Marshal James Ennis and a posse, sought the Sheriff, Thomas Watson, and stated his mission. One of the party, J. M. White, read the writ to the Sheriff and as the Sheriff could not understand English very well, it was interpreted to him.

When the interpreter had finished, the Sheriff replied in a clear voice: "I refuse to obey the order."

Deputy Marshal Clay said: "I demand that you obey the order of that writ in the name of the President of the United States. I am a United States officer."

The writ directed the Indian Sheriff to have the body of Goings at South McAlester July 22. The District Attorney declared that only Almighty God or Judge Abner James, the Choctaw Judge, could stop the execution.

A runner was dispatched for Judge James, the Choctaw judge, fifteen miles away. The runner returned with the information that the judge was too ill to write an order, but sent a verbal order to the effect that a commission, consisting of the Sheriff, the District Attorney, the Clerk, two Deputy United States Marshals, be organized and inquire of Marshal Clay if he could show any law whereby the United States had the power to stop the execution, and if he could not, then to carry out the execution.

The commission decided that they knew of no law to justify the turning over of the prisoner to the United States authorities, and the Sheriff set the hour of execution for 2 o'clock.

Some time shortly before two o'clock two Choctaw ministers visited the condemned man in the jail and religious exercises lasting about half an hour were held, consisting of songs and prayer, the condemned joining in the singing. At 2:30 a guard of 24 deputies formed a line on each side of the doorway of the jail and Goings, supported on either side by the Sheriff and Deputy, stepped out. The guards kept step and together the solemn procession marched down the full length of the line of spectators, about 100 yards, turned and marched to the spot where the execution was to take place, in front of the Courthouse, and distant from the spectators about 30 yards. As the procession moved down the line Go- was spread upon the ground and his eyes to them. He was seated on a quilt, which ings recognized several people and spoke bandaged, a deputy sheriff holding each arm. A piece of paper with a black spot on it was pinned to his shirt over his heart.

The Sheriff walked almost ten paces away, knelt, rested his rifle over a bench, sighted carefully and fired. The bullet passed through the body and knocked up the dust on the other side.

The condemned man at once sank down upon the quilt, which was spread for him, the deputies still holding his hands. He did not expire at once, but lived for fully half an hour, all the time emitting groans that were heard all over the grounds, and once he spoke some words in a choking voice.

A brother and two of his cousins stood about 30 yards distant and witnessed the execution, and not until after the fatal shot had been fired did they exhibit any signs of emotion. After life had become extinct the body was placed in the coffin a few feet distant from the spot and turned over to his relatives for burial.

Alikchi, where the execution took place, is the Seven Devil's Mountains, 40 miles from a railway.

"Alikchi" means "doctor water," or medicinal water, for Alikchi has numerous sulphur and iron springs, and is quite an Indian summer resort. It is like no other town on earth. A wreck of a courthouse, a calaboose, a big general store and half a dozen houses surround a big, dirty square, in the center of which are several springs housed over. The water is strongly impregnated with sulphur and no one knows how many other minerals.

Going was no novice at murder. His first murder occurred about nine years ago when he was quite a boy. That time he killed his uncle, Jacob Lewis, in a drunken row. He liked it so well that three months afterward he killed Anson Amos, and a year or so after an Indian named Anderson. His latest murder was that of Sampson Going. He was accounted the best rifle shot in the Indian Territory.

WAS GOING EXECUTED.

Statement That To-Day Was the Time Set for the Shooting.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTH M'ALESTER, . T., July 14.—William Goine is to be executed at Sulphur Springs to-day. Yesterday his attorneys wired an application for a writ of habeas corpus to Judge J. R. Thomas of the Northern District, who is at present at Tulsa, I. T. Judge Thomas granted the writ of habeas corpus. The writ, addressed to Thomas Watson, the Choctaw Sheriff was received at Antlers by wire, ordering Going to be brought to South McAlester on the 22d of July. United States Marshal Clay and posse left immediately for the scene. They will have to ride all night in order to get there in time to save Going.

THEY FOUGHT IN KANSAS CITY.

H. J. Conway and J. G. Schwartz, Both From St. Louis.

H. J. Conway and J. G. Schwartz, both St. Louis shoeclerks, and members of the executive board of the Retail Clerks' National Protective Association, now in convention in Kansas City, engaged in an altercation during Thursday's session, which led to an exchange of blows. More serious results would have likely ensued had not the spectators interfered.

It seems that bad blood has existed for some time between the two men, and Conway took umbrage at a trival remark, made in a spirit of jest, that Schwartz uttered. The former struck the latter, and in a moment the two were at it, hammer and tongs, they being separated only with the greatest difficulty. As Conway was led away he drew a knife and made several threats.

Conway's employer gives him a good reputation, saying that he is a quiet, hard-working fellow. He knew nothing of his clerk's affairs, however, and so was unable to speak about previous difficulties between the combatants.

DEWEY'S PROGRESS ON THE WAY HOME.

PORT SAID, Egypt, July 14.—The United States cruiser Olympia arrived here at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Admiral Dewey, who is looking well, and hearty, has been reluctantly obliged to decline the invitation of Minister Strauss at Constantinople, to stay with him on the Bosphorous, as he is anxious to get to New York as soon as possible. He has decided to proceed in the Olympia to Trieste, where he will make a short stay for change of air, proceeding thence to America.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Secretary Long has received the following cable message from Admiral Dewey:

Port Said, July 14.—Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Olympia in voluntary quarantine. As soon as coaled will proceed to Trieste for pratique and recuperation, officers and men. DEWEY.

Inasmuch as he is silent on the subject, it is assumed that no change has occurred in the health of Admiral Dewey and his men since their departure from Hong Kong, when all were reported well. It is said at the Navy Department that the Admiral's reference to "pratique" means simply that he is going to Trieste, which is in Austria on the Adriatic Sea, to get a clean bill of health that will enable him to continue his voyage through the Mediterranean without delays from the health authorities at the various points.

POLICE DISPERSE A PARIS CROWD.

Trouble Feared by Massing of Patriotic Leaguers.

MET AT STRASBURG STATUE.

DE ROULEDE MARCHED AT THE HEAD OF THE PARADE.

Usual Reviews of National Day Carried Out at All Garrisons of France Without Unusual Incident.

PARIS, July 14.—Magnificent weather today favored the National day. The public and many private buildings were decorated with flags. M. M. De Roulede and Marcel-Habert and several hundred members of the Patriotic League marched to the Place de la Concorde and deposited a wreath at the foot of the Strasburg statue, amid the cries of "Vive l'Armee,' "Viva de Roulede."

M. De Roulede in turn shouted "Vive la Republique Francaise," "Vive la Nation Francaise," "Vive l'Alsace Lorraine." He then requested the Leaguers to disperse.

Some of them attempted to continue the demonstration, but the police scattered them.

Dispatches from various garrisons, including Rennes, report that the reviews were carried out without incident. The troops were acclaimed with the usual shouts of "Vive l'Armee."

Enormous crowds wended their way towards Longchamps from early morning to witness the military review. Stringent precautions were taken for the preservation of order. The Cabinet Ministers began to arrive at 3 o'clock. The President of the Chamber of Deputies, M. Deschanel, and the officials of the House were welcomed with shouts of "Vive la Republique!" and "Vive l'Armee!" but there were isolated cries of a seditious character, which led to some arrests near the Carre Four des Cascades.

President Loubet left the Elysee Palace at 2:30 p. m., in a carriage drawn by four horses. He was accompanied by the Minister of War, General, the Marquis de Callifet, and Gen. Bailloud. In a second carriage were the Premier, M. Waldeck Rousseau, and others.

Along the entire route the President was greeted with cries of "Vive Loubet" and "Vive la Republique." When he arrived at Longchamps the shouts were redoubled. After receiving the congratulations of the officials, the President turned towards the crowds and bowed repeatedly.

Gen. Kermartin handed over the command of the troops to Gen. Brugere, the Military Governor of Paris and the review began forthwith.

Gen. Brugere galloped along the front of the line and the distribution of decorations followed. Then the General took up a position in front of the Presidential stand and the march past occurred.

As each regiment passed the Presidential stand its flag was dipped and the President rose and saluted the colors. Each time he was greeted with cheering for the army.

Suddenly a roar of applause ascended from the distant masses of spectators and increased in volume as Major Marchand, the African explorer and principal figure on the French side in the Fashoda incident, mounted on a superb black charger, and surrounded by the Soudanese soldiers, who had accompanied him across the African continent, appeared in view, and amidst increasing excitement, defiled in front of the President. The air rang with deafening cries of "Vive Marchand," and "Vive l'Armee," and hats were thrown upwards on all sides. As President Loubet arose the cheers were redoubled and continued until the little band of Soudanese disappeared in the distance.

The review was concluded at 4:20 p. m. President Loubet re-entered the Elysee Palace at 4:50 p. m., greeted with loud applause.

BRUTAL HIGHWAYMEN

THEY ATTACK WOMEN ALONG EWING AVENUE.

BUT MISS GOG BESTED THEM.

She Was Dragged for a Block by a Negro—The Recent Case of Mrs. Farnsworth in that Vicinity.

Brutal highwaymen are causing a reign of terror in the vicinity of Ewing avenue and Pine and Chestnut streets. The latest outrage occurred Thursday night when Miss Martha Gog, an employe of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. was knocked down and dragged in the gutter nearly a block by a negro who was bent on robbery.

Another recent case was that of Mrs. George E. Farnsworth of 2929 Washington avenue, who was knocked down and robbed by negroes at Leffingwell avenue and Chestnut street in broad daylight, on July 6.

Miss Gog boards at 2916 Pine street. Thursday night she started with Miss Lottie Greer for a street car ride. They walked over to Ewing avenue to take the car on Washington avenue. The time was 8 o'clock. Opposite Pilgrim Church, a man who had been following the girls, grabbed Miss Gog's pocket-book and tried to wrench it from her hand. She held on to it. Miss Greer began to scream, when a second man ran up and joined in the attack. Miss Gog was knocked down and dragged in the gutter, but retained her hold on the purse. The screams of the young woman attracted a crowd and the two highwaymen retreated down the alley.

Mrs. Farnsworth was more unfortunate. She was attacked by two negroes who beat her and secured her purse, at Leffingwell and Chestnut. Her purse was recovered afterward by a wheelman who pursued the footpads and frightened them so they dropped their booty.

TO WIND UP RYAN'S ESTATE.

Probate Court Will Decide Who Is Entitled to the Hoard Left by a Miser.

An inquiry to determine who is entitled to the estate of the late David Ryan was begun in the Probate Court Friday afternoon.

There are several claimants, one being a St. Louis woman who says Ryan was her nephew. Julia, Mary and Justin Ryan of Chicago also claim the estate on the ground that they are neices and nephew of the dead man. There are other persons who say they have an interest in the estate, but they have not entered a legal appearance.

Ryan, who had served 30 years in the army, died in an old stable at Fourteenth and Papin streets, two years ago. He lived in poverty and suffered from want of the necessities of life. It was generally thought he had no means.

After his death, however, about $6000 in gold and securities was found hidden in his miserable home. This was placed in the hands of the Public Administrator, who immediately began to receive letters from many persons who assured him they were Ryan's heirs. Only the St. Louis woman and the Chicago family were able to establish claims and the others were thrown out. Judge Rassieur set their opposing claims for hearing several times, but the case was invariably continued. It became the duty of Judge Henderson, when he succeeded Judge Rassieur to reset it. He says he intends to dispose of it at this hearing, as Ryan has been dead two years and his estate must be wound up immediately.

GERMAN DAILY SUSPENDED.

Volks-Zeitung Taken Possession of by Many Creditors.

The Volks-Zeitung, a socialistic German daily, has suspended publication and its employes, to whom it is claimed the management were largely indebted, are now in control of the paper.

Max Ungar, assistant managing editor, said: "We started a year ago with the assurance that there were enough socialists in St. Louis to support a paper advocating their principles. But we soon found it costs money to run a newspaper and our news service was severely handicapped by our reporters, who went on a strike a week ago."

The place of publication was at 517 Walnut street. Gathered there Friday morning were copy boys, reporters and printers, all demanding compensation for their services to the Volks-Zeitung. Some of them claimed a part of the type, others the presses, while a third contingent expressed a desire to have the Sheriff levy on the property.

SAFE BLOWERS CRACKED SAFES.

North Side Visited Four Times by the Robbers.

SAFE DOORS WERE SHATTERED.

BOOKS AND PAPERS STREWN ABOUT PRIVATE OFFICES.

Small Amounts of Money Obtained, but the Burglars Appear to Be Persistent in Their Efforts.

Safe blowers are having things their own way in the vicinity of Salisbury street and Natural Bridge road. According to the statement of the police four business houses have been entered and the safes damaged in the last two weeks.

The news of these depredations has been carefully withheld from the public, no arrests have been made and no property restored.

Two robberies are known. The first occurred at the Theling Moulding Co., Ninth street and Bremen avenue. A window was forced, holes drilled in the safe and the big iron door shattered. A small sum of money and some papers, only valuable to the firm, were taken.

The office of the H. J. Behrens Lumber Co. at Salisbury and Natural Bridge road was entered Monday night. The screen before a window was ripped and the glass broken, but the entrance was gained through the door. The two locks were forced and then the burglars were in the outer office.

The lock of another heavy door had to be ruined before the private office was reached.

The combination dial was knocked off and a heavy charge of powder inserted. This failed to explode, but the charge in a hole drilled in the lower part of the door was more successful. Still the heavy doors refused to yield and the robbers decamped without a second trial.

Had the work been successful the thieves would have secured the company's books and 7 cents in cash.

"When the detectives came to see me," said Mr. Behrens, Friday, "they said this was the fourth attempt in the neighborhood. All were bungling jobs and the officers think a gang of amateur cracksmen are operating in this vicinity. Nobody but a novice would attempt to open our safe. It is of the old fire-proof type and never contains anything but books, papers and very small change. There never is any money in the office after banking hours.

The police came around and asked any number of questions, but they have made no arrests yet. This section has very meager police protection. Hours often pass between the times we see a policeman, and at night a burglar could do a good job and be out of reach before the officers get here."

ITCHING LIMBS

For Three Years. Nights Itching and Burning Terrible.

Wife Suggests CUTICURA. Uses it. Presto! What a Change.

Feels Like Kicking Doctors for Three Years' Suffering.

The itching and burning I suffered in my feet and limbs for three years were terrible. At night they were worse, and would keep me awake a greater part of the night. I consulted doctor after doctor, as I was travelling on the road most of my time, also one of our city doctors. None of the doctors knew what the trouble was. I got a lot of the different samples of the medicines I had been using. I found them of so many different kinds, that I concluded I would have to go to a Cincinnati hospital before I would get relief. I had frequently been urged to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, but I had no faith in them. My wife finally prevailed upon me to try them. Presto! What a change. I am now cured, and it is a permanent cure. I feel like kicking some doctor or myself for suffering three years when I could have used CUTICURA remedies.

He wore a tar cap, also, which did no good, but got no relief until he used the CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP. Now he is a clean, healthy child.

St. Louis World's Fair

One Man Writes "The Fair Looks Like It's Busted!"

THE PEOPLE SAY DIFFERENT

And Visitors to the St. Lou's Columbian Exposition Will Find at Least One Great Institution to Admire.

The St. Louis World's Fair project appears to be trembling in the balance.

One very learned St. Louis editor has gone so far as to say "the Fair looks like it's busted."

Happily, however, others say different, and the World's Fair project still lives.

There was a time when the editor was the biggest man in the town.

Next to him came the doctor.

Now the business man has something to say, and even the humble citizen is occasionally listened to.

The majority say the next World's Fair shall be held in St. Louis, and the majority will rule in this as in all other cases.

And visitors to this World's Fair will find that no profession has made more rapid strides than that of the physician.

Only a few years ago the professional education of the average physician would now be thought insufficient to admit him to practice.

In general the medical education of a doctor was such as he could pick up while serving an apprenticeship to some noted practitioner.

He ground the powders, mixed the pills, rode with the doctor on his rounds, held the basin when the patient was bled, helped to adjust plasters, to sew wounds, and ran with vials from one end of the town to the other.

It cost money in those days to secure the attendance of the physician, and this attendance was not always followed with benefit to the patient.

In St. Louis to-day the best medical treatment may be had for the simple asking, and at the command of poor and rich alike there is a corps of physicians in this city who move, a corps of veteran practitioners of noted skill and science, and with all the medicines and needed appliances in the medical and surgical way at their command.

They treat rich and poor alike, and to rich and poor alike they give one whole week's treatment absolutely free of charge.

They give free treatment for one whole week to all persons who are afflicted in any way with deafness, catarrh or bronchial troubles of any kind, or with any of those diseases common to our people.

This free week which they give to all unfortunates is in reality a free week, there being no charges of any character whatsoever, but a free and unsolicited aid to all who are in trouble.

Patients living at a distance from St. Louis and unable to come to the office may have the free week's treatment and medicines sent to them by writing for it.

HIS HOUSE EMPTIED

HENRY GANTZ ROBBED OF CLOTHING AND FURNITURE.

SUSPECTS HIS HOUSEKEEPER.

He Has Caused a Warrant to Be Issued Charging Mary Stevens With Burglary and Larceny.

When Henry Gantz of 802 Gratiot street returned home Thursday evening he was more surprised than angry to learn that during his absence some miscreant had carried off every article of furniture in the house.

Great was Gantz's despair when his housekeeper, Mary Stevens, was nowhere to be found. Then he was ready to weep. But he didn't, thinking perhaps the faithful Mary was downtown shopping. He called the neighbors and to each of them he put this query: "Have you seen our Mary?"

All of them had, and they further stated that in the afternoon his furniture was hauled away from the house in a wagon.

"We thought you were moving, Mr. Gantz," said one of the women, consolingly, "because some one declared you were tired to living on Gratiot street."

Then Mr. Gantz made an inventory of his losses, which are stated in the police report as follows: Cash, $62.50; one trunk, containing a lot of underclothing and shirts; dark sack suit of clothes, one black chinchilla overcoat, one set of furniture, consisting of a dresser, a washstand, a bed, with springs and mattresses, and eight feather pillows, all valued at about $125.

Mary Stevens had been in Mr. Gantz's employ several years.

In the silent watches of the night he waited for Mary to return, but at midnight she was still among the missing.

Mary is described as being about 35 years old, of medium build, weighs 135 pounds, light complexion.

Gantz stated that she lived in the vicinity of Manchester and Choutean avenue.

Friday morning a warrant was issued, charging Mary Stevens with burglary and larceny in the second degree. Her address in the warrant is given as 1224 Old Manchester road.

THE LAND TRUST IS THE LATEST.

Farmer Allen of Nebraska Said to Be at Its Head.

EFFECT OF THE RESERVOIR ACT.

ITS CHIEF PROMOTER WAS SENATOR PETTIGREW.

Under Its Operations Senator Allen, Controls About 10,000 Acres of the Public Domain in His State.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 14.--The Populists and anti-trust men of this State are chagrined to find that an act of Congress known as the "reservoir act," which it was supposed would benefit the farmers and ranchmen, has resulted in the formation of a land trust. At the head of this trust stands ex-Senator William Vincent Allen of this State, the Populistic statesman and orator who now sits on the bench of one of the district courts.

The author of the "reservoir act" was Senator Pettigrew, the South Dakota Populist and self-proclaimed arch enemy of monopoly. The "reservoir act" was introduced by him and put through Congress practically without opposition. It provided that any person could enter upon arid or semi-arid lands belonging to the Government and construct reservoirs, and that for each reservoir constructed the person so entering should have absolute control of 160 acres of land, provided that he permitted the general public to use the reservoir for stock watering purposes.

Strangely enough the bill did not provide what the size of the reservoir ought to be, and under its provisions a good-sized watering trough would give its builder control of 160 acres surrounding it. Nor did the bill require the immediate construction of the reservoir, but gave the person filing notice of entry upon a quarter section two years in which to build his reservoir.

The officials in charge of the Broken Bow Land Office have just awakened to the fact that for a long time past ex-Senator Allen has been entering two or three quarter sections a day under the provisions of the "reservoir act." Looking back over the records, they find that he now controls about 10,000 acres of the public domain for two years. He has not built any reservoirs, and need not build any for two years.

In the meantime, however, any ranchman who wishes to graze his cattle on the lands which the ex-Senator has acquired must make terms with him. At the end of two years, if he finds that some of the lands he has entered upon are valuable, he can probably arrange to continue his control of them, although it is not contended that a permanent title is given under the "reservoir act." Such lands as he does not care to continue his control of he can simply abandon, but in the meantime he is holding practically a monopoly on the public lands.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS THE CAUSE.

Five German Insurance Companies Withdraw From Texas.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 14.—The State Insurance Department has been advised of the withdrawal from the State of the Frankfort Accident Insurance Co., the Thuringia Fire Insurance Co., the Trans-atlantic Fire Insurance Co., the North German Fire Insurance Co. and the Hamburg-Bremen Insurance Co., all of Hamburg, Germany. The companies withdrew on account of recent stringent anti-trust legislation.

NO TRUST FOR THE PRESENT.

Manufacturers of Candy Cannot Reach an Agreement.

FRONTENAC, N. Y., July 14.—The manufacturing confectioners of the United States in convention here decided that the projected combination cannot be affected for the present.

Carmody's elegant bar and its corps of mixerologists are busy all through business hours making up fine, fancy drinks of all kinds for "Ten Cents." It is bound to become the popular place of the city, as nothing but the very best goods are used by this establishment, Eighth and Olive streets. The people have at last one of the finest and one of the best conducted saloons in the city, selling the best brands of liquors at "Ten Cents." The times have demanded this charge.

SHE NOW REGRETS HER CHOICE.

Mrs. Amelia E. Yerger—nee Niedringhaus—Is Suing for Divorce.

Amelia E. Yerger has filed suit for divorce against Edward M. Yerger, charging him with desertion and failure to support her and their 9-year-old daughter. She married the defendant Aug. 29, 1889, at St. Paul, Minn.

It appears that the plaintiff in the suit was known to St. Louis society prior to her marriage as Miss Mildred Niedringhaus, daughter of Mr. H. L. Niedringhaus, manager of the Granite Rolling Mills, of 5970 Plymouth avenue.

Her marriage will be remembered as an elopement. She was very young and had met Mr. Yerger in the West. He was thrown rrom a horse near a house where she was visiting and seriously injured. While he was detained at the house by his injuries an attachment grew up between him and Miss Mildred. When he recovered and after Miss Mildred had returned to her home in St. Louis he paid his addresses to her, but his suit was opposed by her parents. One morning she was missing, and the next word the anxious parents had of her was an announcement of her marriage. In explanation of the fact that her name was given as Amelia instead of Mildred it is stated that the former was one of her given names.

IT WAS PASSED REGULARLY.

Nesbit Election Bill's Title Amended in the Senate.

Senator John W. Drabelle of St. Louis was deeply interested in the success of the so-called Nesbit election law, which, it is alleged, was passed illegally in the Senate. The Senator denies emphatically that there was anything irregular in the passage of the bill.

"The issue seems to rest," he said, "on whether the title was amended in the House. It is alleged that it was not and that, therefore, the bill was illegally passed. I state positively that the title was amended in the House. I know it because I have examined the record and the bill. The charge that the title was not amended merely shows the ignorance of some persons of parliamentary usage. The bill was amended in the House, and before its passage it was found that the title needed amendment. As everybody knows, after the passage of a bill is the proper time for amendments to the title. The title came to the Senate with an amendment attached. In the Senate the record indorsed on the bill showed that the title had been amended in the House. When the bill came up for passage, Senator Morton, who was in the chair, put the question of the amendment to the title, and it was adopted. The title was then agreed to. As everybody knows, titles are agreed to without roll call. This perfected the bill, and I defy anyone to find any irregularity in the proceeding."

BANK CLOSED; CASHIER GONE.

Missing Since Monday and Accounts $110,000 Short.

THE COUNTY BANK OF JERSEY.

COVERED UP PECULATION BY FALSE ENTRIES.

The Defaulting Officer Was Regarded as a Man of Good Habits and a Leading Citizen of Perth Amboy.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Middlesex County Bank of Perth Amboy, N. J., has closed its doors. Cashier George M. Valentine is reported to be missing with $110,000 of the bank's money.

The President of the bank, U. B. Watson, informed the police of Perth Amboy last night of the condition of affairs and reported that Valentine had not been seen since Monday last. The details of how the money was converted or misappropriated are not known.

Expert accountants are at work on Cashier Valentine's books and until they finish their work, the amount of the shortage cannot be acurately stated. Cashier Valentine has been in the employ of the Perth Amboy bank for several years. He was considered a man of steady habits and lived with his family in Perth Amboy. His family consists of his wife and two or three children. He is under 40 years of age.

The Perth Amboy Bank was established about 25 years ago and was considered one of the oldest and solidest banking institutions in New Jersey. The failure of the bank to open its doors for business to-day drew a large crowd to the vicinity and the police were employed to preserve order.

The Chief of Police of Perth Amboy is authority for the statement that Cashier Valentine's defalcation amounts to $110,000.

Some weeks ago Cashier Valentine took his family to Ocean Grove. He spent Sunday there with his family, and when last heard of, on Monday morning, left Ocean Grove, as was supposed, to go up to the Perth Amboy Bank. He did not get off the train at Perth Amboy, but continued on to New York. In this city he cashed checks amounting to between $3,000 and $5,000 at the Park National Bank, with which the Perth Amboy Bank transacted business. Cashier Valentine was very well known at the Park National Bank. The police say that Valentine's speculations had extended over a period of several months and that he managed to cover up the shortage by false entries in his books.

TRIAL OF HARTUNG AND SON.

Defense Endeavoring to Show That Ellison Was a Bully and That Hartung Shot in Self-Defense.

The trial of Anton Hartung and his son, Hugo Hartung, for the murder of John Ellison at Anglum, St. Louis County, March 19, was concluded in the Circuit Court at Clayton Friday, and went to the jury.

The last witnesses to be placed on the stand were Louis Hatre of Bridgeton, Mrs. Menke of St. Louis, Thomas Coleman, Hiram Hall, Hugo Fetch, James Fetch and Emile Baungarten.

The story as told by these witnesses is, that the two Hartungs were the keepers of a saloon at Anglum, which is near Bridgeton Station on the Wabash Railroad. Ellison entered the saloon and invited those present to drink with him. Afterward Anton Hartung, who was at the bar, demanded pay for six drinks, but Ellison refused to pay for but five, which he claimed were all that he ordered. After the exchange of words Hartung drew a pistol and ordered Ellison to leave the place. Ellison threw a beer glass at Hartung and Hartung fired at Ellison, the bullet going wide of its mark and lodging in the ceiling.

Hartung still held the smoking revolver in his hand when Mrs. Hartung rushed in and stood between her husband and Ellison. In the struggle that followed Ellison and Mrs. Hartung fell to the floor. Hugo Hartung then came in and after a glance at the surroundings drew a revolver and shot Ellison in the side. Another shot was fired, but by whom is a question of contention on which the defense is basing great hopes, as it is claimed this was the fatal shot. The struggle did not end with the shooting, but lasted for some time afterward. Ellison at length, however, grew weak and he begged his assailants to release him, promising to leave the place. He managed to free himself from their hold and went out on the street, but had only proceeded a short distance when he fell dead. He was bleeding from two wounds.

The arguments in the case were made Friday morning. The State is represented by Messrs. F. A. Heidorn and J. W. Warfield. The Hartungs are being defended by ex-Gov. Charles P. Johnson and Attorney William E. Fish. The attorneys for the defense endeavored to prove that Ellison was a bully, and that the Hartungs were forced to the action by the man's outrageous conduct.

A Kansan and His Wife Dangerously Wounded by the Man They Attacked for Talking Scandal.

TROY, Kan., July 14.—After Robert Creason had been discharged by Jack Ricklef because of attentions paid his wife on his farm, Creason began to speak slightingly of Mrs. Ricklef and to display letters she had written him. Mrs. Ricklef and her husband, each armed with a revolver and a heavy whip, yesterday found Creason and ordered him to hold up his hands.

Creason grabbed the revolver from Ricklef and knocked him down, fracturing his skull. Mrs. Ricklef shot Creason. He shot her in the mouth. Ricklef finally downed Creason, and while he pinned him to the ground Mrs. Ricklef sent a bullet into his head.

All three will die.

BECKMAN WAS SILENT

GOV. STONE CHALLENGED HIM TO MAKE A STATEMENT.

AFFAIRS OF MULLANPHY BANK.

At a Meeting of the Creditors the Receiver Was Greeted With Cheers After He Spoke.

The mass meeting of the creditors of the defunct Mullanphy Savings Bank at Lafayette Hall, Seventeenth street and Cass avenue, Thursday night, adjourned without taking any action.

The charges, which some of the creditors had announced they would present against Receiver William J. Stone, were not offered for the consideration of the meeting. Not a word was spoken against the receiver's management of the bank's affairs since they passed into his control and his explanation of the Farmers' Elevator Stock transaction was greeted with cheers by his audience.

But the ex-Governor himself turned accuser and scathingly arraigned those persons whom, he thought, had been instrumental in circulating reports of irregularities in handling the Farmers' Elevator Stock. Edward Beckman, one of the appraisers of the assets of the bank, was the particular target of his anger and he defied Beckman to show where, for one minute, he had failed to exercise good judgment and fearless honesty in the prosecution of the affairs of the receivership.

Louis Hermann, president of the Mullanphy Bank Creditors' Association, presided over the meeting. About 200 creditors, one third of whom were women, were present. Ex-Gov. Stone was present by special invitation as were also Beckman and Mr. Barrett, two of the appraisers appointed by the court.

The chairman stated briefly the object of the meeting, saying a report from the receiver on the status of the bank's affairs was desired. He also said the creditors believed the alleged mystery about the Farmers' Elevator Stock should be explained. Ex-Gov. Stone arose and said he was pleased at a opportunity to talk to the creditors and said he could easily show them he had been diligent in their interests. He then reviewed the history of the receivership, declaring that the bank was as nearly a complete wreck as it could be and that months of labor were required to untangle its affairs. He said he had brought suit against the directors because he thought he could recover every cent of the amount asked. He declared he had never favored a compromise and had only reported favorably to a settlement out of court when he was led to believe that a majority of the creditors desired it. "The court has now directed me to prosecute this suit to judgment and I shall do so with the utmost vigor," said he. "I hope to recover a large verdict for you next October."

Speaking of the Farmers' Elevator stock he said he had tried to sell it, but couldn't find a market. He said he then transferred the stock to Little & Hays for selling purposes, taking a receipt showing that the stock really belonged to the bank and that Little & Hays held it only as agents. He said it was necessary to do this in order to keep the public from valuing the stock too low on the theory he was too anxious to sell. He declared that all insinuations that he had sold the stock to Little & Hays and had taken it back when the elevator failed were false.

Mr. Barrett told of his work as appraiser of the assets of the bank and warmly supported the receiver in the Farmers' Elevator transaction.

Mr. Beckman was called upon for a speech. He had previously announced in newspaper interviews that he offered ex-Gov. Stone $25 a share for the elevator stock. He declined to make a speech, simply saying, "I will speak when the proper time comes."

Receiver Stone, who had previously been calm, regarded this statement as significant and his ire was aroused. He arose, greatly excited, and addressing Beckman and the creditors in turn, said:

"I don't think you're honest. I think Mr. Beckman has been the origin of all this trouble. I don't think you are an honest man. Now's the proper time and place for him to speak. I call on him, if he has a statement to make, to make it now, face to face, man to man. What is it? I wait for your answer."

His voice was keyed to a shriek and he shook with rage. As he completed his last sentence he stopped before Beckman and pointed his finger at him. The audience breathlessly awaited the result, fearing a conflict between the accuser and the accused if the latter attempted to answer. But Beckman sat silent.

Ex-Gov. Stone then declared that Beckman had been at outs with him since Judge Valliant had only allowed him (Beckman) $100 as appraiser, when he wanted $500. He said Beckman thought he had something to do with the cut. He declared that Beckman had never made him an offer of $25 a share for the elevator stock. "If he had done so I would have sold it," shouted the receiver.

Mr. Barrett again supported the receiver, saying Beckman was so anxious about his fees as appraiser that he desired his associates to fix their compensation at their first meeting, some time before they had done any work.

Receiver Stone again called on Beckman to speak, but the latter, remaining silent, the receiver picked up his hat and started for the door. A motion to adjourn was made and passed unanimously.

During the evening the receiver was asked if a criminal proceeding would lie against the directors.

"I don't know," was the reply. "But I am ready at any time to tell all I know to a grand jury. Unless a proceeding is begun by next spring, however, it will be barred."

The court has adjourned until October.

THE FIRST DISTRICT COURT.

Comptroller Thinks It Should Go Over Chestnut Street Station.

Comptroller Sturgeon went house hunting Friday morning for a new home for the First District Police Court. It was suggested by Judge Kinsey and Chief Campbell that the chamber of the House of Delegates in the old City Hall be used, but Mr. Sturgeon wants the room over the Chestnut Street Police Station.

These three officials passed Friday morning looking over the ground, but arrived at no decision. Since the Comptroller desires the Chestnut Street Station the probabilities are it will go there.

Mr. Sturgeon was practically alone in wanting the Second District Court moved from Broadway and Biddle streets to its present location over the sub-station of the Fourth District at Jefferson avenue and Dayton street. Capt. Joyce protested, the citizens in that vicinity petitioned the Comptroller, Mayor and assembly not to make the move, while the saloon element actively circulated petitions to have the court remain on Biddle street. Mr. Sturgeon was not moved by these appeals, and it is highly probable he will have his own way again in sending the First District Court to Chestnut street.

MR. LESUEUR WROTE IT

THE NEW BILL GOVERNING POLITICAL COMMITTEES.

SECRETARY DEFINES IT.

Its Application to St. Louis and What It Will Accomplish When It Goes Into Effect.

G. W. Harris, chairman of the Conference Committee of the Democratic City Central Committee, has received a letter from Secretary of State Lesueur explaining the meaning of the new law defining central committees, which is expected to have a salutory effect upon the Democratic organization in St. Louis.

The Secretary of State wrote the law and says two years ago he could not find a member of the Legislature with courage to introduce it. Last winter he prevailed on Senator Vandiver to introduce it, and it passed without serious trouble. As to the meaning of the law, Capt. Lesueur says:

"It is intended to prevent fusion by power delegated two or three times removed from the people. It does not propose to prevent fusion by conventions of the people. If you will examine it you will find that the first provision is that the Central Committee of a political party shall consist of the largest body elected for the purpose of representing and acting for the party in the interim between conventions of the party. For instance, in St. Louis, if you have a central committee composed of one member from each precinct there for the purpose covered by this bill, it is that body alone which can be considered the central committee. Further, for the purpose of making nominations to fill vacancies on the ticket which was previously nominated by the convention, a majority of all the members elected as the Central Committee, as has been defined, will be necessary in order to take action. Such Central Committee will not have the power to delegate its authority to make nominations to fill vacancies to the Executive Committee, or to any person or number of persons other than itself."

Under this law, Mr. Harris hopes that new life will be infused into the Central Committee and that the domination of the Executive Committee in the conduct of campaigns will be checked.

IMITATIONS OF "UNEEDA" BISCUIT.

United States Circuit Court Grants Injunction Against "Iwanta" Biscuit.

An injunction, which applies to all the numerous imitations of "Uneeda" Biscuit, has just been granted by the United States Circuit Court, for the Southern District of New York, against the use of the trademark, "Iwanta," which was applied to a biscuit which the court decided to be an infringement upon the trade-mark, "Uneeda," the biscuit made so widely known by newspaper advertising.

In his opinion, Judge Lacombe remarks that the case is too plain to waste many words over. That "Uneeda" as applied to biscuit, is a proper trade-mark, and that complainant is entitled to its exclusive use in that connection, is hardly disputed. That it has been most extensively advertised, presumably at great expense, is matter of common knowledge. The court refused to accept the plea of the defendant that with the word "Uneeda" before him, his device to avoid confusion was the adoption of the word "Iwanta."

TWO FRENCH FETES TO-NIGHT.

One at Lemp's Park and the Other at Forest Park Highlands.

One hundred and ten years ago to-day the French people destroyed the Bastile, the symbol and tower of tyranny in which thousands had perished miserably. The anniversary is being celebrated by Frenchmen all over the world. In St. Louis there are two formal celebrations—one at Lemp's Park, under the auspices of the old French Fete Society, and one at Forest Park Highlands under the auspices of the Franco-American Society.

At the Highlands there will be addresses in English and French by prominent St. Louis citizens.

"The Marseillaise" will be sung and accompanied by booming cannon, fired by the Battery A boys. The Branch Guards will give an exhibition drill under the guidance of Capt. Sinclair and a display of fireworks will close the programme. In the smaller pavilion Col. Hopkins will present his show. Admission will be charged to the grounds only. Both pavilions are free for the evening.

At Lemp's Park there will be oratory, music, dancing and fireworks. The musical programme is elaborate. The indications are that both fetes will be well attended.

PASTOR WHITE DIDN'T LIKE IT.

A Cakewalker's Effort to "Fill in" Was Not Appreciated.

Peter Matthael attempted to sing "My Honolulu Queen" and execute cakewalk steps from the pulpit of St. Luke's M. E. Church, Potomac and Texas avenues.

It was during an entertainment given by the young men of the Epworth League. The good people were greatly shocked at such a wide departure from church entertainments and plainly showed their disapproval. Matthael forgot his lines and attempted to "fill in" with cakewalk dancing. This brought a strong protest from the Rev. Harry White, pastor, and the singer left the platform.

HARMONY IS THE WORD.

There is no sounder, more reliable testimony with regard to the World's Fair than that of the heads of the great financial institutions of the city. They are conservative men,, accustomed to the careful analysis of every proposition with a view to a thorough comprehension of conditions and results. They realize fully the financial problem of an enterprise.

To the unqualified approval of the World's Fair by President Huttig of the Third National Bank and Vice-President Van Blarcom of the National Bank of Commerce, there was added yesterday in the Post-Dispatch the hearty indorsement of President George A. Baker of the Continental National Bank. The essence of Mr. Baker's opinion was contained in the following words:

"I FEEL THAT EVERY INTEREST IN THE CITY SHOULD HARMONIZE ON THIS ONE GREAT EVENT. I REGARD IT AS THE MOST IMPORTANT IN THE HISTORY OF THE CITY."

Harmony is the word. The harmonizing of every interest in the World's Fair means the greatest success. That is the goal to be sought by every St. Louisan.

GENUINE CORRUPTION

Mr. R. P. Scott, millionaire candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Sixteenth Ohio District, has some good ideas about money in politics. In a card to the public he offers $10,000 for the nomination, which he publicly says should be put up at auction.

> If a Congressman should pay for the honor, he says, why not do it in a legitimate way and tender a great good to the community? If we want bossism and corruption, let us be honest and cut sham out. Let us get together and say we are a set of polluted scoundrels; we like it, and prefer to keep it up. If you do this, I will agree to put more genuine corruption into the campaign than any other man, or suffer defeat at the polls.

This is refreshing irony. Mr. Scott evidently has heard from the politicians and bosses and knows what is expected of him. He proposes to be an honest rascal, if rascal he must be, and not hide behind a veil of hypocritical pretense. But what a commentary on American politics!

IN THE MIRE OF POLITICS.

When Alger was under indictment for supplying rotten rations to our soldiers the President still had need of him and the Administration organs either defended him or were eloquently silent on the subject of his misdeeds. Now that Alger is politically offensive at the court of Emperor William, the Administration organs are screeching about the necessity of his getting out of the Cabinet. Concerning this contrast the New York World makes these pertinent remarks:

> The President did not mind the rotten beef scandal, the transport horrors, the camp criminalities, the death of ten soldiers by preventable diseases for every one killed by Spanish bullets, the suspicious contracts and the shameful appointment of incompetent Sons of Somebodies. Everything that has made Alger an "old man of the sea" on the back of the President and caused the term "Algerism" to be a synonym for incompetence and jobbery was defended or excused. But when the Secretary formed a political alliance for his own advancement with an enemy of monopolies and a critic of the President's policy, he sinned beyond forgiveness.

Mr. McKinley is not gaining honor from the revelation of his motives in his treatment of Secretary Alger. He is in the mire of politics.

◆◆◆

POOR ALGER

Administration organs are telling Mr. Alger that he is in the way of the McKinley boom and that his resignation is confidently expected in the near future. Mr. Alger smiles and says these expectations will not be realized, since he does not intend to resign.

Alger seems to be wanting in moral perception. He tried to make himself "solid" for the Senatorship by making a "deal" with Pingree, who is fighting the Administration. Then he tried to mollify the President by repudiating the alliance with the potato statesman. He was false to both his chief and his ally and is surprised that neither will trust him.

That the President is determined to get rid of him is certain. He has lost all standing with the Administration. No man does him reverence. Even Corbin ignores him. Gov. Roosevelt is consulted in regard to matters belonging to the War Department and the Secretary is not invited to participate in the conference. How long can he bear such treatment?

Mr. Alger's career has been full of sinister distinction. As a public man he is his own worst enemy. His failures are due to his own gross unintelligence, his utter inability to measure moral values. He has been by turns a tool and butt. And his political career seems to be closing in an atmosphere of contempt and ridicule. His fate once more confirms Bulwer Lytton's observation that "small men should not try to play the great game."

MONEY FOR THE SULTAN.

The Sultan of Sulu is in clover, or whatever tropical plant corresponds to clover.

Gen. Bates, agent of the United States, is on his way to Sulu with a bag of money for the Sultan—$10,000, it is said.

The United States government does not owe this uxorious potentate anything. The payment is a bribe. The Sultan thinks he is sovereign of the Sulu Archipelago, now that the Spaniards have quit. He knows nothing of treaties and doesn't propose to acknowledge the binding force of the treaty of Paris, because he was not a party to it.

So Emperor William McKinley proposes to buy his acknowledgment of American sovereignty. This is a very un-emperor-like proceeding. Napoleon never bought his victories nor the submission of the nations. He went after them in a most imperial fashion, with all his eagles screaming, and did not stop until he made them love him as their good father and lord.

Is our American emperor discouraged by the failure of his campaign of blood and iron in Luzon? And does he propose to finish the conquest of the Philippines with cold cash?

This is commercial, but is it American? If the islands and inhabitants "belong" to us of right—a right already bought and paid for—why pay this polygamous gentleman with rings in his nose for something already ours

FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR

General Manager Howard Elliott, as the representative of the Burlington Route, vigorously approved the World's Fair and urged harmonious action. Vice-President Charles G. Warner pledged the hearty support of the Missouri Pacific to the great project. Now President D. B. Robinson of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad unequivocally approves the World's Fair and urges united action to make it a great success. The "Frisco" runs through the Southwest, the territory whose development means most to St. Louis. There lies the greatest future for St. Louis trade. As a sagacious business man, charged with the management of great railroad interests, Mr. Robinson knows that the inevitable result of the World's Fair will be advertisement of the vast and varied resources of the Southwest and the consequent attraction of men and money and the rapid development of this wonderful territory. He knows that the richest harvest of this development will be reaped by St. Louis. His judgment may be trusted. His opinion should have great weight with those who doubt and hesitate.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

On my return from New York this morning I find your query: "Are you in favor of the World's Fair?" To this, I say, "Yes," in the strongest terms. While I have been unable to devote much time to the details of committee work, owing to almost continual absence from the city during the past few months, I have urged the proposition both here and in the East, among those who are interested in the welfare of St. Louis, as being one of vital importance to us all at this time. It seems to me that we are so near the goal now that it is simply impossible for us to stop. It would be a disgrace to our great city, and one that we could not explain now or recover from in years.

"The Frisco Line" can be relied upon to do its full share in way of subscription, and its official staff, as citizens, to do all in their power to further the interests of the enterprise.

Very truly yours, D. B. ROBINSON, President.
St. Louis, July 12, 1899.

THE BABY.

Mothers are invited to contribute to this department. If you have made a discovery of benefit to your baby's health or mental development share it with the mother readers of the Post-Dispatch.

If your baby has said original and funny things, as only bright babies can, they will be acceptable to this department.

THE BABY'S STOMACH.—How much milk does a new-born baby's stomach hold? Without distension it will encompass exactly one ounce, which is two tablespoonfuls. This is at birth, of course, and taking it for granted that the baby is of average size. This will show you how foolish it is to give a tiny baby a well-filled nursing bottle, allowing it to gorge to the limit. If the food is not thrown off by vomiting it will likely pass through the bowels in an undigested state. For the first week a baby should be fed every two hours, the average amount at each feeding being one ounce, and the average number of feedings being 10, making 10 ounces in 24 hours. From one to six weeks he should be fed every two and one-half hours and given from one and a half to two ounces each meal. The average number of feedings should then be eight and the little stomach will be given from 12 to 16 ounces in 24 hours. After the age of six weeks the baby is given three or four ounces at each meal, while the time between is lengthened slightly.

DON'T HURRY HIM.—A wise woman writes: Don't try to make your little boy too precocious. Don't teach him to say "pieces" or anything of that sort. Children have their little heads crammed altogether too full. I do not believe in teaching a child to read before he is 6 years old at the earliest. Wait a while and he will learn all the better and remember longer, too. With many a child, particularly a nervous one, the simple instructions at kindergarten cause too much mental effort. With this, let me advise you to endavor to avoid excitement for the little lad as much as you can. Let his life develop as quietly and uneventfully as possible. He will be just that much stronger and healthier when a man.

CROUP.—A source of anxiety and deadly terror to the mother is the sudden barking cough, which comes usually in the "wee sma'" hours of the night, and suggests some disturbance of the respiratory organs. This is a veritable bugbear, and presents itself in two forms. One mild and seldom fatal, which is usually preceded by a slight cold with hoarseness, and is caused by an accumulation which flows freely during the day from the nose, but at night stuffs up the breathing apparatus. There is some little inflammation of the larynx and the throat, and a little fever, and the child seems almost smothering, catching its breath in expiration. This mild form is called catarrhal croup, is much more frequent, and the mother or the nurse can do a great deal to give the child comfort and mitigate the severity of the attack. A comfortable hot bath and a little vaseline rubbed over the nose and chest, or the old-fashioned remedy of goose grease used as a lubricant of the external parts, will be very valuable. If the physician is near at hand, the mother needs no suggestion as to remedies, and may use simply the hot bath and external applications; but if by any chance she lives out of town, and the symptoms seem very grave, then an allopathic physician would administer syrup of squills or ipecac in quantities sufficient to cause vomiting, and a homeopathic physician would order aconite and spongia in alternation, or heparsulphur, given in small doses. For a violent attack of croup always send for the physician.

BE GOOD TO THE COWS.—Investigating science has laid one more burden upon the mother who would put every safeguard around her bottle-fed baby. Not only the methods but the manners of cow-keepers must be studied, as it has been demonstrated, it seems, that unkind treatment of cows will produce poison in their milk. They are said to be affected not alone by kicks and blows, but also by loud talk and profane abuse.

KEEP THE LITTLE ONES AT HOME.—Get a pile of nice, clean sand, and so keep your little family from running into other people's yards Go to any place where there are buildings being erected, and some of the workmen will be able to tell you of whom you can order the sand. It will be the best investment you can make in the way of toys or amusements. A few pancake turners or shovels or spoons, together with some old pails, will be the only accessories necessary besides thin sunbonnets or broad hats. Never mind if the sand does spoil the grass a little. It will be worth it. Nothing less exciting than a play-circus in the next yard will entice them away.

FOUND IN A MINE.

"You must be very careful when you are walking out alone, Sarah," said Harry W. Treat, owner of the Van Anda Mine, to his girl guest from New York, "because the snow often covers a mine shaft or other opening. There have been serious accidents to tenderfeet that walk where miners fear to to tread," he laughed, "so keep your wits about you."

"I will," she replied. "The best ones I have. The new set sharpened and made keen by use in the Nor'west. Good-by. I'm off for a walk before breakfast."

She waved him a farewell and started off gayly. Her little boots creaked in the snow as she strode sturdily away.

"That's a nice girl, isn't she, mamma?" Mr. Treat threw one arm around his wife as she came to the door, and they both stood looking at Susan Hunt as long as her scarlet jacket made the most vivid mark in the clear blue and white day.

"Yes, she is; and do you know, Harry"—Mrs. Treat's voice sank to the note of confidence—"I've been thinking wouldn't it be nice if she should fall in love with Will Christopher or—or somebody—and stay up here in Vancouver. It would be a great change for a New York society girl, of course, but—I wonder where Will Christopher is, anyway? He was coming up here to call on her last evening. Did he write or send word to you why he didn't come? He didn't? That's funny. I thought he had better manners!"

Mrs. Treat turned and went inside the house, her pretty face showing a mark of vexation over the failure of her husband's partner to live up to her idea of him.

In the meantime Sarah Hunt walked along, serenely unconscious of her friend's match-making designs. The weather was clear, crisp and beautiful and she felt as happy as a lass with a good conscious and easy shoes can feel when out for a walk on a breezy morning. Suddenly she stopped stock still and listened. A faint "Hello!" came from somewhere on her right.

"Help!" It came more distinctly, and she called in reply:

"What is the matter?" as she ran toward the sound.

A disused shaft yawned up at her, and it seemed to the man lying with a broken leg in the half-frozen water at its depth that the face bending over the edge so anxiously was lovelier than he had ever seen before.

"I have been here all night," he said, with new courage, "and if—" but she was gone, and he wondered miserably if she had not been but a creature of his dreams after all. But in a few minutes she returned with a coil of rope from the dilapidated shafthouse near by, and tying one to a tree passed the other down to him.

An hour later Harry Treat and his wife came up to them. The long absence of their guest had alarmed them and sent them out to look for her. They found her kneeling on the ground trying to revive an unconscious man.

SHE RETURNED WITH A COIL OF ROPE.

"Will Christopher!" they exclaimed together, and as he opened his eyes Mrs. Treat exclaimed:

"So this is where you were?"

When the young couple, who had met under such romantic circumstances, were married, Mrs. Treat said, as she kissed the bride:

"It has all happened just as I intended it should." But she did not mean the rescue from the mine at all. Fate claimed all the honor for that.—Chicago Journal.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

(This column is open to everybody who has a complaint to make, a grievance to ventilate, information to give or a subject of general interest to discuss, or a public service to acknowledge, and who can put the idea into the fewest words possible. Letters from persons seeking employment cannot be given place in this column.)

An Odorous Block.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Kindly oblige a constant reader by allowing several lines of space for these questions to the Board of Health:

1. Are the people residing in the vicinity of Wash street, between Tenth and Eleventh, considered members of the human race?
2. Are we entitled to fresh air?
3. Have we a right to live?
4. Is our money as valuable as others?
5. Do they take us for swine?

I understand we all pay our taxes. We are American citizens, and after all we get no benefit of it. Our streets are dirty, nasty, and the atmosphere is fully impregnated with offensive odors, due to the garbage lying here since two weeks, and which is undergoing decomposition and creating all sorts of new bacteria, which are undoubtedly injurious to health. It is getting to be almost unbearable. I have appealed to the Board of Health, and they appear to be so busy—I know not with what—that they cannot attend to our request. It is indeed disgraceful. If the board cannot find enough time to attend to their duties, let them increase their staff so that there may be some means of attending to such necessities.

AN AMERICAN CITIZEN.

Some St. Louis Milk.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having occasion to test some samples of milk and cream, as sold by a number of dairymen in this city, I found them to contain a large percentage of preservatives, such a formalin or fomialedehyde, salicylic acid, and boracic acid and to be unfit for human consumption. Some of the samples were below the city standard. A large proportion of the cream extracted, and in the case of cream to have a large quantity of condensed milk in addition to the preservatives.

These samples were unhealthy and one was ropy.

I should think it was time for the city authorities to stop this adulteration and not allow our citizens to use such dangerous food to the detriment of the health of the city.

Pure milk is necessary to make healthy men, women and children and those who sell the unhealthy goods for their individual gain should be prosecuted and made to stop their nefarious business.

Flammarion and the "Spirits."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

In an interview with a Post-Dispatch correspondent, Flammarion says: "As it is inadmissible that real spirits could err or jest, evidently my intercourse with Galileo was a long delusion."

This statement will surprise old Spiritualists. Nothing is more common than for unseen intelligences to pretend to be great astronomers, physicians, statesmen or authors. Hundreds of deluded mediums, some of them very ignorant, believe themselves to be controlled by the spirit of some great man or woman. Practical jokers, when they die, are not changed, if the spiritualist assertions are true. They are the same jokers they were here and until they can be taken out of "darkness" by repentance they remain on the same low plane that they occupied in the earth life. Nothing could be more crude than Flammarion's idea that a spirit becomes perfect on passing from the body. Such a sudden metamorphosis would be impossible in nature, which always works slowly. It may be true that our spirits never go and never return; but it is absolutely certain that invisible intelligences of some sort do communicate with us and that many of these intelligences are liars and jokers who would be only too happy to work upon a credulous scientist. Perhaps Flammarion is so angry that he is blinded to the actual facts.

M. Flammarion's assertion that the so-called spirit revelations always are confined to things known, suspected or desired by somebody present, is not true, as any thorough, clear-headed investigator will learn.

No Usona.

From the Jefferson City Press.

The St. Louis college professor who suggested that this country be renamed and called "Usona" is no doubt sorry by this time that he spoke, for the protest, even against the mere suggestion, has been universal and unanimous.

SPORTS OF THE DAY.

FAUSTURO IS GREAT.

THE CAHNS APPEAR ABLE TO WIN WITH HIM.

HE DEFEATED VERIFY TUESDAY.

Then the People Who Had Bet on the Other Horse Rose Up and Made an Awful Noise.

Fausturo, the 3-year-old bay colt by Faustus—Volturo, must be a racehorse, sure enough.

When called on he appears able to beat about anything at the Fair Grounds.

He is owned by J. C. Cahn.

The chestnut gelding Verify, by Imp. Victory—Bonnie Lizzie, is owned by Abe Cahn, J. C.'s brother. These two horses were started in the fourth race at the Fair Grounds Thursday.

In the betting one had to put up $5 to win $4 on Verify, while the bookies laid $6 to $1 against Fausturo's chances.

When the race was run Fausturo was first past the post, with Our Gertie close to him and Verify, the favorite, a full length behind both.

The race of Verify last week, when he defeated Richard J., made him look like a 1 to 10 shot in Thursday's event, and when the bookies laid even money the talent thought it was a false price and bet heavily on him.

Fausturo's victory, therefore, was a genuine shock, so much so, in fact, that after the race an excited crowd gathered around the judges' stand, clamoring for an investigation before bets were paid. The "jockies" were weighed out and bets were cashed, despite the clamor.

Later on Judge Murphy looked over the bookies' sheets. The amount of money played to win was very small, showing that the talent did not have much confidence in Fausturo's ability and that the Cahns had not played him heavily here.

The judges, however, decided not to allow the Cahn brothers in the future to start two horses in one race, and the entry of Fausturo, on account of his in and out running, was ordered refused from this time henceforth.

Tronble made its appearance early at the Fair Grounds on Thursday.

In the very first race Tragedy, who finished last to a lot of selling platters on Monday won from Guide Rock and Alleviate. There was such a vast improvement in the mare's work that Judge Murphy ordered her owner, W. A. Johnson and his mare from the track. Johnson's only excuse was that the mare was short of work in her first start.

In the juvenile event, Alice Turner galloped home in front of Lady Curzon and Miss Mae Day. Alice Turner's race was a good one and she was prefectly handled by Conley. Lady Curzon's race was a decided improvement over her last one.

Judge Steadman, Chimma and Trimmer finished in the order named in the second race. Steadman is in great form just now and was the best. Chimma ran a good race to the last sixteenth pole when Steadman came with a rush and won handily.

Imp Mint Sauce, the favorite in the fifth won off Oakly and finished last behind Go-to-bed, Pat Morrissey and Fireside, who ran in the order named.

La Josephine won the closing race from Red Pirate and Be True. La Josephine's race was a good one and she ran over her field. Red Pirate has improved greatly. Be True's rider, Gilmore, was warned by the judges for not trying.

Grand Rapids Deal Not Yet Closed.

CHICAGO, July 14.—President Johnson of the Western League and Tom Loftus of the Columbus club, brought back word from Grand Rapids that in all probability the Columbus club would be transferred to that town. They looked over the ground and seemed satisfied that it would prove a better location than the Ohio city. According to Loftus there are still a few details to be settled before the deal is finally closed.

Another L. A. W. Failure.

JANESVILLE, Wis., July 14.—The national circuit bicycle race meet was declared off to-day. Several of the riders were complaining that money due them was unpaid, and there was much hard feeling, despite the splendid track and natural advantages in favor of the event. Most of the riders left this afternoon for Ravenswood, Ill.

Sale of Pleasanton Stock Farm.

OAKLAND, Cal., July 14.—The sale of the Pleasanton Stock Farm, one of the most famous training quarters in California for trotters, has been announced. With its equipment it has passed into the hands of a company of English capitalists, headed by H. F. Anderson and C. B. Charles Worth. They intend to make extensive improvements and to establish a new center for running as well as harness racers.

Sloan Wins a Selling Plate

LONDON, July 14.—At the first day of the Sandowne Park summer (Eclipse) meeting to-day Sir R. Waldie Griffiths Swirl, ridden by Tod Sloan, won the Ditton Selling Plate of 200 sovereigns. Sixteen horses ran. The betting was 15 to 1 against Swirl.

The Duke of Westminster's Flying Fox, winner of this year's Derby, the 2000 guineas and the Princess of Wales Stakes, won the Eclipse Stakes.

Jennings for Wagner.

BALTIMORE, July 14.—Hanlon has offered to exchange Hugh Jennings for Hans Wagner. The Louisville people do not feel inclined to accept the offer. They say Wagner is a comer, while Jennings' usefulness is practically at an end.

THE CONTINENTALS.

LIST OF ENTRIES FOR SATURDAY'S ATHLETIC MEETING.

TO BE HELD ON C. B. C. CAMPUS.

There Will Be Sixteen Starters in the One Hundred Yard Dash and It Promises to Be a Great Race.

The first field meet of the Continental Athletic Association, which will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Christian Brothers' College campus, promises to be one of the best of the kind held this season.

The events are all filled to overflowing, and as a consequence the 100-yard dash, which has 16 entries, will be run in four heats, the winners to qualify in the final.

The 100-yard event promises to be the hardest contested event on the lengthy programme, Handicapper Parsons having placed the men exceptionally well.

In fact all of the athletic and bicycle events have filled well and a fine day's sport is certain.

WESTERN LEAGUE PLAYERS.

List of Those Now Good Enough for the National League.

Ted Sullivan has been at Milwaukee, sizing up the best players in the Western League.

He appears to think that there are several men in that organization who will be able to hold their own in the National League next year.

In Ted's mind the best pitchers in the Western League are Waddel, Frisk, Cronin and Rettger. Waddell has pitched great ball for Columbus, but he does not field his position any too fine. He is erratic at times, but if handled right should make a valuable man in the big league. Frisk is one of the most promising players in the country, being a splendid pitcher and also a star fielder and batter. George Rettger has been in the big league before, but for all that he is one of the best twirlers in the West to-day. His work against the strong Western teams has been phenomenal at times. Cronin belongs to Pittsburg, and will be returned in the fall. "Kid" Kellum of the Indianapolis Club is fast, but not quite ripe for league company.

The league clubs had better watch the work of Third Baseman Andrews of the Minneapolis Club and Third Baseman Gier of St. Paul. Andrews is the more valuable man of the two, for the reason that he is an aggressive player and one who uses his brains. Both are hard hitters. Dillon, the first baseman of the Buffalo Club, is also worth watching. Waldron, right fielder of the Milwaukee Club; "Lefty" Davis of Minneapolis, and Barrett of Detroit are the most promising fielders in the league. Waldron has a batting average of 340, and his fielding percentage for the entire season is 1000. As a base runner he is near the top of the list. Barrett is very fast, too, and Davis is close up. Nance of Minneapolis is a good man, but not of the kind to improve. There are only two catchers in the league ready for advancement. These are Sullivan of the Columbus team and Buelow of Detroit. Kahoe belongs to the Cincinnati Club and cannot be considered one of the men to be drafted. Sullivan is a hard sticker and good thrower, and reports are out to the effect that Loftus has already disposed of him to the Boston Club for next year. Buelow is a promising youth and should make his mark.

ENGLISH BOXERS COMING.

At Coney Island This Fall They Will Meet the Best Americans.

NEW YORK, July 14.—International championship boxing contests between noted American and English pugilists will be given at Coney Island during the fall and winter months.

Preliminary arrangements for these bouts have already been made. In a letter to Alex Brown, manager of the Coney Island Club, Billy Brady, who is now in England, writes that he has signed contracts with the leading pugilists in Great Britain for contests in this country.

Among the men whom Brady has signed are Ben Jordan, feather-weight champion of England; Owen Sweeney, lightweight champion of Ireland; Dick Burge, welter-weight champion of England, and Bobby Dobbs, a colored American lightweight, who has been beating the best men in his class in Great Britain.

TO THE BEST LOCAL SHOT.

With his usual liberality, August A. Busch, vice-president of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co., has devoted to the crack shots of St. Louis a beautiful and valuable medal, set with diamonds and rubies, valued at $250, known as the St. Louis Challenge Trophy for Championship of City and St. Louis County Shoot, 25 live birds at the trap. Thursday's Games.

St. Louis 8, Brooklyn 2.
Philadelphia 5, Cleveland 1.
Pittsburg 9, New York 5.
Chicago 9, Boston 4.

Where They Play.

St. Louis at New York.
Pittsburg at Boston.
Chicago at Brooklyn.
Cincinnati at Philadelphia.
Cleveland at Baltimore.
Louisville at Washington.

When the Boston and Brooklyn clubs met with defeat at Chicago on their last Western trip they consoled themselves by promising the Windy City aggregation a good walloping when they played East.

Up to date Chicago has won more than her share of games from Boston on the latter's grounds, and it looks as though the Orphans would win as many games East as they did on their home grounds.

Thursday they defeated Boston again by a score of 9 to 4.

The Orphans are hitting the ball and fielding always as good as their opponents, and that is the kind of ball that wins.

Philadelphia is having a fine time with Cleveland. The Exiles will be lucky if they win one game on their Eastern trip.

The local boys are hitting the ball, and will, no doubt, give a good account of themselves in their series with New York, which begins to-day.

With a little luck and the present batting streak St. Louis should take two games from New York.

Jake Stenzel's St. Louis friends are delighted to hear of Jake being signed with Cincinnati and express their opinion that he will do well with that team.

In the past whenever St. Louis released or traded a player he generally improved with the team he went to and astonished the League Ely, Quinn, Monte Cross, "Kid" Gleason and others are examples.

Pittsburg continues to play good ball on their Eastern trip. Since Watkins has resigned the team has improved steadily. Still no one will say that Watkins is not a good manager.

St. Louis would be improved wonderfully if Wagner of Louisville would be signed. It is said that Ned Hanlon is after him. Pat had better look out or he may miss a good chance to get one of the greatest players in the business.

Both Jake Beckley and Jake Stenzel have joined the Cincinnati team in Washington, and will play their first game with the Reds. Beckley has been laid up for some time with a bad finger and Stenzel has just been signed to play with that team.

TURNED DOWN BY M'KINLEY.

The Cincinnati Reds Given a Cold Reception at the White House.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—According to an appointment made yesterday by Business Manager Bancroft, the President was to have received the officers and players of the Cincinnati Club at the White House this morning at 10 o'clock. At that hour the party marched up, but like the French King's army they marched back again. At the same time that they arrived Secretary of State Hay put in an appearance with a big portfolio under his arm. He was admitted at once, while the Reds cooled their heels on the flagstone walk outside. The President sent word that he would see them "after awhile." They waited nearly an hour and then gave up the job and sought their hotel.

A CORDIAL WELCOME.

THE YALE AND HARVARD TEAMS GIVEN THAT IN ENGLAND.

Copyright, 1899, by Press Publishing Company.

BRIGHTON, England, July 14.—A most cordial welcome has been extended to the Yale-Harvard athletic team since its arrival in England.

The newspapers, athletic authorities, college men and English sportsmen generally are doing their utmost to make the visit of the Americans here a pleasant one.

The Yale-Harvard team arrived here from Southampton yesterday, and did their first practice on English soil at Preston Park.

They are all in excellent condition, but Trainer Lathrop of Harvard and Trainer Copeland of Yale thought it advisable to confine the work of their charges to short runs on the soft turf. This precaution was taken in order to run no risk of "cracking" muscles or tendons that might have been relaxed during the voyage.

After the day's training work the team attended Barnum & Bailey's circus last evening. The Americans were greeted with their own national air and a series of college melodies.

While English athletic sharps are confident of the success of Oxford and Cambridge against the visitors, they admit that the Yale-Harvard men are a promising lot, and will give a good account of themselves.

It is not likely that at this late date any adverse action will be taken against Burke and Quinlan of Harvard.

The question of eligibility to compete is settled so far as the four universities are concerned, and it is now in the hands of Secretary Charles Herbert of the American Athletic Association for final decision.

Mr. Herbert has not been over-fond of American athletes since the signal defeat of the London Athletic Club in 1895. Mr. Herbert was in partial charge of the English team at the time. He met Burke while in America and needs no official advice as to his status.

To bar Burke and Quinlan at this late date would unpleasantly mar the success of the dual meet, and in view of the fact that the secretary of the A. A. U of America has vouched for all of the American athletes, there is not likely to be any trouble. All English sportsmen hope that this will be the outcome.

BEST SHOTS IN THE WORLD.

In the Contest for Kolapore Cup the Canadians Were Victorious.

BISLEY, England, July 14.—In the contest for the Kolapore cup, seven shots at 200, 500 and 600 yards, open to teams of eight, one team of volunteers from the mother country, one team from the militia or volunteers of each British colony or dependency and one team from members of the India staff corps, India service or India volunteers. At the end of the 200 yards shooting to-day the scores were as follows:

Mother country, 243; Canada, 240; Guernsey, 235; India, 236; Jersey, 229.

The best Canadian score was that of Rennie, 32.

Simpson, Ogg and Gilchrist each made 30.

In the 500 yards competition for the Kolapore cup the scores were as follows:

Mother Country, 265; Canada, 263; Guernsey, 258; Jersey, 254; India, 246.

Twenty of That Gentleman's Fine Horses Were Destroyed.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The fire on the William C. Whitney estate, at Westboro, L. I., last night did not destroy the country house, as was first reported, but burned one of the largest barns. Plucky work by volunteer firemen drove the flames back from the house and the total loss from the fire is estimated at from $60,000 to $70,000, much of this sum being represented by 20 fine horses, including several of Mr. Whitney's racers, which were burned.

TRANSVAAL RAAD ACCEPTS ENGLAND'S ADVICE.

TALK LIKE THAT OF FRIENDS.

The British Government Approves the Volksraad's Franchise Proposals and Boers Reply Kindly.

LONDON, July 14.—The Digger News, the Boer organ in London, has received the following dispatch from Johannesburg, dated July 14:

A cable dispatch from the British Government has been received by the Transvaal Government conveying a cordial message of warm approval of the Volksraad's franchise proposals.

The message also suggests minor alterations and tenders friendly advice.

The Transvaal, in replying, gratefully accepts the suggestions, and consideration of the reform bill now before the Raad, has been deferred, in accordance with the British Cabinet's advice.

As a result of this development, the peace party has come out triumphant and Lord Salisbury is acclaimed as the vindicator of the moderates.

WATCHING THE TRANSVAAL.

The United States Will Protect the Interests of Americans in Kruger's Republic.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Although taking no part in the effort to obtain redress for the Outlanders in the Transvaal the Administration undoubtedly sympathizes with Great Britain in its endeavor to obtain concessions from President Kruger.

Information in the State Department shows that Americans in business in the South Africa republic are restricted, as are the British and other Outlanders. This information is not a protest from Americans, but has been furnished by consular officers, who, under instructions, are closely following the negotiations between the British and Boer Governments. American Consuls' functions do not extend to diplomatic representation, and this Government would not care to antagonize Great Britain by making direct representations to the Transvaal Government, with whose external relations the British Government is charged under a treaty with the Boer republic. Any negotiations, therefore, would of necessity have to pass through the Court of St. James.

The United States is watching the present negotiations between the British and Transvaal Governments with considerable anxiety, as any satisfactory conclusion will benefit not only English but Americans and other foreigners as well.

The report that Rear Admiral Howison, who went to Pretoria from Delagoa Bay and will join his flagship, the Chicago, at Cape Town, is under instructions to make diplomatic representations to the Boer Government in the interests of Americans, is declared untrue at both the Navy Department and State Department, where, it is asserted, no instructions whatever to Admiral Howison to make the trip had been issued. Under the naval regulations an officer in foreign territory is required to make a report upon anything of interest to the United States, so that it is expected that the Admiral will send to Washington a full report of the conditions he finds in the Transvaal.

No representation has been made to the State Department, as reported from Pretoria, touching the alleged intention of Americans in the Transvaal to become British citizens to avoid impressment in the Boer army.

CAUSED BY A MORTAR BOX.

Adolph M. Gross' Thrown From a Buggy and Badly Hurt.

Adolph M. Gross of 2304 Sidney street may die from injuries received in a runaway on Russell avenue, near Thyrman boulevard. He was driving with Joseph Freund of 5882 Cabanne avenue. It is alleged that a contractor left his mortar bed without the lantern demanded by law. The horse Gross was driving ran into the mortar, then plunged forward with such violence as to throw the young men into the street.

Gross' skull was fractured and Freund was injured by being dragged half a block.

Gross is the son of Bernard Gross, secretary of the Columbia Distilling Co.

OPPOSITION TO A SALOON.

Reppito Hearing Begun and Then Postponed Several Days.

A hearing regarding the renewal of the license of V. Reppito, opposite Washington School was held before Excise Commissioner Higgins Friday morning.

It was announced that several women were to appear before the commissioner, but none came. The signatures of three persons were challenged and the matter was laid over for a few days until the persons can be interviewed by the employes of the Excise Commissioner.

HE DID NOT KILL HIMELF.

Friends of Arthur Sloan Will Probably Bury Him.

No evidence was developed before the Coroner that Arthur Sloan or Soloman committed suicide. An autopsy showed that he died of Bright's disease.

A number of friends of the dead man's relative appeared at the inquest and asked for the body. Dr. Lloyd wrote to the young man's London attorneys concerning the disposition of the remains. If the answer is not satisfactory, the body will be given to Sloan's friends for interment.

COMPLAINTS AGAINST WEEDS.

Health and Street Departments Have Begun a Crusade.

Numerous complaints have been made lately to Health Officer Francis regarding high weeds in vacant lots. The complaints come from all sections of the city, and not a few are from physicians. It is stated the decaying weeds are conducive to malaria and in damp places typhoid fever.

The Health Department is having them cut as rapidly as possible and in some outlying sections has invoked the aid of Street Commissioner Varrelman.

INQUEST OVER W. P. SCOTT.

Formal Verdict Rendered and No New Evidence Presented.

The inquest over the body of William Posten Scott, conducted by Coroner Lloyd, Friday, developed nothing. A verdict of death "at the hands of persons unknown" was the verdict of the jury.

Several witnesses were examined, but no eye-witness was discovered and no one testified to having seen the murderer.

JUST LIKE ST. LOUIS.

CITY OF MEXICO TO HAVE A DEPARTMENT STORE.

GOODS BEING BOUGHT HERE.

Mr. Acevedo Stocking the Business Palace From This City—President Diaz Behind the Enterprise.

The City of Mexico will soon have a department store, the first in the Republic, which will rival anything in the country. This announcement means much to St. Louis, whose merchants will sell the greater part of the stock for the store.

At the head of the enterprise is Senor Marie de Teresa Merando, a brother-in-law of President Diaz. His connection with the President of the Republic doubtless means that Diaz and the Diaz millions are interested in the big store.

The building in which the store will be located is a magnificent structure, costing $2,000,000. It is built after the Mexican style of architecture, covering a vast extent of ground, but it is not tall. This building is owned by Senor Merando.

Mr. E. M. Acevedo, the buyer for the store, is now in St. Louis. He is not stopping at a hotel, it being his desire to avoid publicity in order to escape the annoyance of calls from representatives of business houses. He came to St. Louis from New York with a complete knowledge of what he wanted to do here, what houses he wished to deal with and what he wished to purchase. His time is limited and he preferred to work quietly and without loss of time, which would have been impossible had his coming been announced.

Mr. Acevedo will purchase nearly all the stock for the big store in St. Louis. It will be fully up to the standard of St. Louis and New York department stores.

The delivery service of the store will be by automobile vehicles. The store will be equipped with an extensive elevator service and will be lighted by electricity, generated by its own plant.

All the latest devices for making change and wrapping bundles rapidly will be used.

The City of Mexico is in a flutter of pleasant anticipation over the new enterprise, and the grand dames of the ancient city will be expected to patronize it exclusively. It is entirely a new thing in Mexico. The business there has been conducted in the past entirely by shops devoted to the sale of particular articles or classes of goods.

It will be a new sensation to the Mexican lady to be able to buy everything she wants under one roof and get her luncheon there, too.

While Mr. Acevedo is in St. Louis he will be the guest of Mr. G. T. Parker of the Scarritt-Comstock Furniture Co., who has been in communication with him ever since the enterprise was launched, and who is largely responsible for securing this valuable addition to the business of St. Louis.

THEY WERE IN THE SIXTH.

St Louis Men Appointed to Regiments Intended for the Philippines.

Capt. Theodore Schuitz and First Lieutenant Archie Miller, who were given commissions in the United States Volunteer Service Friday, saw service in Cuba with the Sixth Missouri Regiment.

Capt. Schuitz is a St. Louis man, born and bred, who had seen service in the militia before he entered the volunteer army. He raised Company K and commanded it during the Spanish-American war.

Lieut. Archie Miller is also a St. Louis boy. He was First Lieutenant of Company L, Sixth Missouri Regiment. He was born in Fort Sheridan, Ill.

WAS VERY CLOSE TO DEATH.

Mike Morrissey Nearly Dead From Loss of Blood When Help Came.

Mike Morrissey of High and Wash streets was within three minutes of death Friday morning. An ulcer on Morrissey's leg broke, opening a varicose vein. An ambulance was called and a double-quick run was made to the City Dispensary. Dr. Kearney found the man near death from loss of blood. In three minutes more, the physician said, the man would have been past human aid. Dr. Kearney stopped the flow of blood and sent Morrissey to the City Hospital.

THE MARKETS.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 14.

Early trading developed weaknesses in both the wheat and corn markets this morning. In the former the lack of support was most noticeable. Along with weaker cables came a resumption of heavy receipts in the Northwest and at all primary points. In addition to these bearish influences the less sturdy holders again showed a disposition to realize on trades made during the last few days, and this aided the downward movement considerably. September wheat opened ⅛@¼c off. It responded at once to selling and dropped an additional ⅝c during the first hour. September corn lost ⅛@¼c over night. Trading was light early, the market remaining around the opening price.

The weather—Showers and thunderstorms this afternoon, to-night and Saturday; continued warm.

The barometer is highest over the extreme Northwest and lowest over the Southwest. Secondary areas of high and low pressure are present over the Southeast and the Missouri Valley.

Showers were general in Eastern Texas, Colorado, Iowa, Southern Kansas, the Upper Ohio Valley and the Middle Atlantic Coast States. Excessive rainfall occurred at Santa Fe, N. M. The temperature changes were slight.

WHEAT.

There was a lower opening this morning, followed by increasing weakness. Even if there had not been considerable realizing the bearish news might have been sufficient to cause at least temporary depression.

Liverpool closed ⅛d lower and there was almost no sign of the foreign demand for American wheat apparent during the early part of the week. Argentine continues to be a most formidable rival in the export business. Reports received this morning indicated that the visible supply of wheat in Argentine ports is now 8,280,000 bu, compared with 1,280,000 bu last year.

In addition to this bearish information came the "outlook" of the Modern Miller and Snow's Crop Report, both of which characterize conditions as more favorable and had an unmistakable bearish tone, though neither gave any exact figures as a basis for their claims.

The receipts of wheat in the Northwest were again larger, Minneapolis and Duluth receiving nearly eight times as much as on the corresponding day last year. There was a lessening of the suspicion that these receipts were manipulated. In conjunction with all of these bearish influences there was considerable selling to realize. Local trading was not heavy, but at times there was considerable professional interest. There was an increased number of country orders, the bulk of them on the selling side.

September opened at 75⅛c, ⅛@¼c below yesterday's close. It struck the down grade at once and dropped to 74⅝c. After a lull there was a further decline to 74½c. Later there was some buying, which put the market back to 74⅝c.

Receipts of wheat at primary points to-day were 789,000 bu, as compared with 251,000 bu same date last year. Shipments, 305,000 bu, compared with 94,000 bu same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth to-day were 488 cars, compared with 64 cars same date last year.

Receipts of wheat at St. Louis to-day were 86,832 bu, compared with 59,070 bu same date last year. Of these 18,592 sacks and 60 cars were local, compared with 8831 sacks and 55 cars same date last year.

CORN.

One trade resulted from two hours of bidding and offering in this grain. It was dead dull and no one seemed to be anxious to get it out of the rut.

At the opening there was a lot of September offered at 33¼@33⅜c, yesterday's closing price, but buyers would have none of it. Shortly before noon there was a sale at 33¼c. December sold at 31⅛c.

Receipts of corn at primary points to-day were 656,000 bu., as compared with 354,000 bu. same date last year. Shipments 886,000 bu., compared with 623,000 bu. same date last year.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis to-day were 59,200 bu., compared with 5200 bu. same date last year. Of these 47 cars were local, compared with 304 sacks and 6 cars same date last year.

OATS.

Snow's report was slightly bearish on this grain, but there was no appreciable effect on the market. Pit trading was again at a standstill. There was an offer of September at 20½c with no takers.

Receipts of oats at St. Louis to-day were 36,000 bu, compared with 12,000 bu same date last year. Of these 27 cars were local, compared with 10 cars same date last year.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Wheat—Opened steady and unchanged to-day, September at 73⅜@73½c. The market soon turned weak and a gradual decline to 72⅞c for September took place. Lower English cables, liberal Northwest receipts and weather generally favorable to spring wheat caused moderate commission house selling, shorts also putting out new lines. The selling movement was encouraged by continued large Argentine receipts. Northwest receipts were 483 cars, compared with 424 last week and 54 a year ago. Local receipts were 138 cars, two of contract grade. A moderate covering movement took place at the decline, September recovering to 73c.

Corn was quiet with some selling apparently against country acceptances. September opened ⅛@¼c higher at 34⅛@34¼c, and slowly declined to 34c. Ohio and Indiana crop damage reports had little effect as weather in the corn belt is reported favorably generally. Local receipts were 628 cars.

Oats were dull and steady, prices showing little change. September opened unchanged at 20½c, and sold at 20½@20⅝c. Crop prospects were favorable. Local receipts were 272 cars. Trade was light, a fair demand accounting for the firmness.

Provisions were dull and price changes narrow. September pork opened unchanged to 2½c higher at $9.20@9.22½, and declined to $9.17½. September lard opened unchanged at $5.45, and advanced to $5.47½. September ribs opened 2½c higher at $5.22½ and closed off to $5.20.

Wall Street.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Price changes of stocks were mixed at the opening, and were restricted to fractions. There were good gains in Northern Pacific, the Southwesterns and Pennsylvania ranging from ⅛ to about a point. A number of other railroads showed small losses. Brooklyn Transit fell ⅝. Metropolitan showed a small gain. The industrials generally were up a fraction.

Large buying of the Southwesterns and Northern Pacific was a sustaining force in the early market. Manhattan rose a point. Sugar recovered as much, and Tin Plate moved upwards. The general list, however, was disposed to sag. New York Air Brake and Biscuit preferred gained 2½ each.

The tightness of the London money market aroused fears that gold would be exported and checked operations in stocks. The market was semi-stagnant and prices dropped from inanition. New York Air Brake extended its gain to 7 points. Sales to noon, 186,942 shares.

The market continued exceedingly dull, with a downward tendency. Burlington lost 1¼, and Missouri Pacific fell 1⅝ from the top. The close was easy, and showed net losses of a point and upwards for many leaders.

AS TO STREETS AND ALLEYS.

Board of Public Improvements Heard the Views of Citizens.

The Board of Public Improvements Friday held a public hearing on sixteen streets and alleys. All but two ordinances were sent to the Municipal Assembly.

Vigorous remonstrances were made in each case, but the will of the majority of property owners prevailed.

St. Vincent avenue will not be opened from Theresa to Grand avenue, as proposed. A large delegation was present to object to this and did it in such style that the board killed the ordinance. The opening of an alley in South St. Louis was also defeated.

HYGEIA HOTEL CASE.

NEW OBSTACLES MET WITH BY THE PROSECUTION.

TRIAL AGAIN POSTPONED.

Property Owners in the Neighborhood of the Hotel Insist That They Have Some Rights.

The case against Bernard M. Rasmussen, charged with a misdemeanor in maintaining the Hygeia "Hotel," was continued in the Court of Criminal Correction Thursday. The continuance is one of many obstacles that property owners in the vicinity of Twentieth and Morgan streets have found in endeavoring to have the character of the Hygeia investigated by the authorities.

On May 11 a warrant was issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson against Bernard M. Rasmussen, charging him with a misdemeanor in maintaining the house known as the Hygeia "Hotel," at Twentieth and Morgan streets. The warrant was issued on information drawn up by Attorney Thomas Mulvihill and sworn to by G. H. Griddell, who lives at 714 North Twentieth street.

The warrant was sent to the Sheriff's office and given to a deputy sheriff for service. Mr. Mulvihill and Attorney J. C. Jones had been employed by Mr. Griddell, who lives opposite the Hygeia, and other property owners in the vicinity. The property owners claimed that their real estate holdings were depreciated in value because of the character of the Hygeia and that the locality of their homes had been made undesirable for residence by the same cause.

Messrs. Mulvihill and Dodge waited two or three days for notice that the warrant had been served. Receiving no word, Mr. Mulvihill called at the Sheriff's office. He was told that the warrant was in the hands of a deputy, who was out. Mr. Mulvihill then returned to his own office. He was informed that the Sheriff's office had sent a message by telephone for him, stating that the warrant for Rasmussen had been withdrawn by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson.

Mr. Mulvihill hastened to the Prosecuting Attorney's office to inquire the reason for this, to him, strange proceeding.

"Col. Johnson told me he considered it his prerogative to withdraw a warrant before service had been obtained," said Mr. Mulvihill to the Post-Dispatch. "He gave as his reasons for withdrawing the Rasmussen warrant that he had made a mistake in judgment in issuing it. He said he had been reliably informed that Rasmussen conducted a quiet place. He told me that Otto Schumacher, a member of the House of Delegates, had written him a letter giving Rasmussen a good character.

"Col. Johnson also said that the police received no complaints about the place and it was in the district where such 'hotels' are permitted by the Police Board. He insisted that if we wanted to prosecute the proprietor of the Hygeia Hotel it should be done through the police court. I took exceptions to his position. I am quite sure that the Assistant Prsecuting Attorney has not the authority to withdraw a warrant a any time after it is issued, except by motion in open court after having notified the complainant of his intention.

"I assured Col. Johnson that if we should secure a conviction in the police court the defense would appeal to the Court of Criminal Correction. To avoid this extra expense to the State and the loss of time to all concerned we desired to bring the initial proceeding by warrant, so that the case would be heard in the Court of Criminal Correction and settled at once. We have incontrovertible evidence to show that the place is of the character charged in the warrant."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson made substantially the same statement to the Post-Dispatch as quoted by Mr. Mulvihill, with the exception that Mr. Johnson did not mention the letter from Otto Schumacher of the House of Delegates. His explanation for his prerogative of withdrawing a warrant was that if he had not that authority he might some time injure the character of a man by ordering his arrest on erroneous information.

Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction declared to the Post-Dispatch that the Assistant Prosecuting Attorney had the authority to withdraw a warrant providing he did so before the arrest was made. The Judge also stated that all officers of the court were answerable to the court for their official actions and that any charge of abuse of authority on the part of an officer, if made in open court, would be investigated by the Judge.

Attorney Mulvihill and Jones secured a Police Court summons for Rasmussen. The case was set for trial in the First District Police Court.

When the trial came up the attorneys for the prosecution did not like the character of the jury, and entered a nolle prosequi. A second application for a warrant succeeded in obtaining one which resulted in the case being docketed in Judge Clark's court.

MISTRESS AND MAID FOUGHT.

One Wielded a Potato Masher and the Other a Knife.

Lillie Green and her housemaid, Nettie Mathews, who were the principals in a one-round set-to, in which one wielded a potato masher and the other a knife, were quite sore, and incidentally repentant Friday morning. Both had been taken to the City Hospital, where, after their wounds were dressed, they were locked up.

They will be sent to the police court charged with disturbing the peace.

SHE DIED IN ALASKA.

MRS. AMELIA WILKINSON OF ST. LOUIS PASSED AWAY.

SHE SUCCUMBED TO THE COLD.

First Woman to Make the Cable Trip Over Chilkoot Pass—Had Written for the Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Amelia Wilkinson, whose charming letters from the Klondike were printed in the Sunday Post-Dispatch in April, 1898, died June 12, last at Atlin City, Alaska.

The sad news reached her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bunemann of 1727 South Eighteenth street several days ago, in a letter written by one of the two physicians who attended her in her last illness. Her husband, David A. Wilkinson, had been at Dawson City, and was on his way to Atlin City. He arrived after his wife's death. She leaves an adopted son and a little daughter 4 years old. She was 27 years old.

MRS. AMELIA WILKINSON.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson went to the Klondike two years ago when the gold fever was at its height. They had been able to get along by mining, but had not struck it rich. Mrs. Wilkinson was the first woman to make the Cable trip over Chilkoot Pass, and her accounts of her experiences on that and other occasions, given in her letters to her mother and to the Post-Dispatch, and printed by this paper, were admirably written. She had many friends in St. Louis, who will grieve over her death.

Her two children—she was as devoted to the adopted boy as though he was her own—are with her parents. She was buried at Atlin City.

SUDDEN DEATH OF COL. SMITH

St. Louis' Favorite Army Officer, in Charge of the Quartermaster's Department, Passed Away.

Gilbert C. Smith, Lieutenant-Colonel, United States Army, assigned to the charge of the Quartermaster's Depot in this city, died suddenly Wednesday evening at his residence, 4422 Delmar boulevard.

He was alone in his bedroom when the end came, no one being in the house save the housekeeper and the servants. Mrs. Smith was on a visit to a married daughter in Arizona. The deceased complained of severe stomach pains when he arose in the morning and Dr. Hill, his physician, was summoned and prescribed for him. Col. Smith remained at home all day. Just as he was preparing to retire, the housekeeper heard a deep groan and rushing into the room found the dead body of Col. Smith lying on the floor. Doctors and neighbors were at once summoned, but death had resulted instantaneously.

Besides the daughter in the West, Col. Smith leaves a second daughter and three sons. The sons are all in the army. Mrs. Smith recently accompanied her second daughter to the Philippines, where the girl was married, and it was on her return from this trip that the wife decided to visit her other child.

Col. Smith was a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted as a sergeant and coming out as a captain and assistant quartermaster. Since then he has been continuously in this department, receiving promotions until he had attained the rank he held at his death. He rendered valuable service during the recent war, the central location of St. Louis, making it a great purchasing market.

Col. Smith was a quiet, unostentatious man, possessing great charm of manner and proving very popular with the people with whom he came in contact.

SMITH OF ST. LOUIS HONORED.

Re-Elected Vice-President of the National Lumbermen.

F. H. Smith of St. Louis was re-elected First Vice-President of the National Hardwood Lumbermen's Association at Milwaukee, Wis., Thursday. The other officers elected were: President, W. A. Bennet, Cincinnati; Second Vice-President, W. H. Russe, Memphis; Third Vice-President, F. W. Lawrence, Boston; Secretary, A. R. Vinnette, Chicago; Treasurer, W. C. Bailey, Minneapolis.

MAY BE TWO MURDERS

THREE FIERCE FIGHTS AT CANTY'S PINE STREET SALOON.

CANTY STABBED BY A NEGRESS.

Two Others Hurt Later, One of Them Being Struck With a Club—Several Persons Arrested.

Canty's saloon, Fourteenth and Pine streets, was the scene of three fierce fights Thursday, and two of them may prove to be murders.

While the patrons of the resort were being amused in the evening by singing and piano playing Jessie Jackson, a negress, proclaimed that she was the guest of "Prof." Arthur Banks, her husband. Canty, the proprietor, attempted to appease the wrath of Miss Jackson and she wielded a razor, cutting him three times. He was taken to the City Hospital. His injuries consisted of two severe cuts on the breast and one over the kidneys.

When the Jackson woman revived from the blow given her by Canty she again showed fight and was so roughly handled by those in the saloon that an ambulance took her away in an uncosclous condition. She is being held a prisoner to await the result of Canty's wounds.

Directly after this Michael Boyce threatened to clean out the place and drew a revolver. Herman Towel bartender, brought a hickory club into play and when he had finished Boyce was insensible. His wound may prove to be a fracture of the skull and Towel has been locked up pending the result of the injuries.

SPONHAKE WILL PROBABLY DIE.

In a Serious Condition Because of His Leap from a Window.

Charles Sponhake, a cigar maker, who jumped from the third-story window of the house at 1601 South Ninth street, was still alive Friday night, though his injuries are such that his recovery is extremely doubtful.

Dr. Scharf, who attended him, found that every portion of the man's body had been bruised and crushed by the terrible leap, in addition to several fractures. His spinal column also is affected, causing total paralysis. This latter will probably result in death.

Sponhake made two unsuccessful attempts to jump before he finally succeeded, and then only when his companion had left the room. It appears that he suffers from a delusion that he is being pursued by men bent on murdering him. Once before Sponhake tried to destroy himself by jumping from a rapidly moving train, but he was not seriously injured.

His mother, his only relative, is an inmate of the German Home for the Aged.

THE MARKET BASKET BY CERES.

BY "CERES."

"We may live without books—what is knowledge but grieving?
We may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving?
We may live without love—what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?"

—OWEN MEREDITH.

All the inhabitants of Union Market are wasting their sweetness on the desert air and sighing, "I wish I were a cantaloupe." Oh, the joy of being filled with crushed ice during these torrid months of July and August.

A few days since, a firm at Third and Franklin avenue received a large shipment of cantaloupes from Arizona, the first that have ever come to this market from that point. These melons are raised at an altitude 400 feet higher than the Rocky Fords, and under irrigation. They are excellent, have a sweet, spicy flavor and are very similar to the Rocky Ford. The genuine Rocky Ford will not be on the market until August 10.

Missouri turned out some of her cantaloupes this week, but they are not good. Her tomatoes, green peas and roasting ears are "well done" and are now on the market.

A good sized shipment of grapes was received from Arizona during the past week. The fruit is very fine.

A good grade of currants arrived here from Indiana a couple of days ago.

STREET RAILWAY STOCK.

It Is to Be Distributed in Three Lots, Equally Good—Suburban Still Holding Out for a Better Price.

The distribution of stock in the syndicated street railroads, made possible by the signing of the street railroad monopoly bill by Gov. Stepheus, presages an early completion of the plans of consolidation.

The market value of the stock is 110, that figure having been bid for it. It is to be distributed in three lots. One lot represents the Southern Electric, National and St. Louis Traction lines; another the Lindell-Missouri combination, and the third the Scullin lines.

Purchasers are given to understand, however, that one issue is as good as another. The certificates of stock are identical. Purchasers have also been given to understand that eventually all the stock will be absorbed in one company, whose capitalization will be not less than $100,000,000, and which will cover all the lines in the city except the Suburban. The plan of the syndicate is to use the Central Traction Co. as the vehicle for the consolidation.

Brokers are wondering what the Suburban will do when the final consolidation takes place. It is said that Charles H. Turner, who controls the line, is holding out to get 62 for the stock, the highest offer of the syndicate being 56.

It is now generally believed that the scheme to consolidate all the street railways began with the introduction of the Central Traction franchise ordinance into the Municipal Assembly. Many attempts had been made before that, but somebody always flow the track. When that franchise was secured the syndicate had a club with which it slowly but surely forced the St. Louis owners of lines into the consolidation scheme.

Delinquent taxpayers who make a specialty of serving on juries and otherwise bleeding the State through fees, find themselves "up against it" since the new fee law went into effect. The clerk hereafter must furnish the County Treasurer with a copy of the criminal cost fee bills, and the fees will be paid out by the Treasurer to the proper persons, only when they furnish satisfactory evidence that they are not at the time indebted to the county or State for delinquent taxes, fines, penalties, forfeitures or costs of any kind.
